7B VOCABULARY: computer use; internet words

That's happened to me, too!

I always see loads of pop-up ads, and I don't think they're good for me. This week, I've bought several things I don't need already!	My little cousin borrowed my tablet and has done something to it. When I scroll down, it scrolls up, and when I scroll up, it scrolls down.	I have so many different usernames and passwords I can't remember them all.
I've received an email from my bank with an attachment to download. Or at least I think it's from my bank …	I accidentally posted a private message on my work's social media account. I'm pretty sure I deleted it before anyone saw it.	My inbox is full of spam and forwarded emails that I'm just not interested in.
My smart watch is definitely switched on, but when I swipe or tap the screen, it doesn't do anything!	My friend has just uploaded an embarrassing video of us when we were younger online and tagged me in it.	I have hundreds of folders on my computer and I don't know how to begin organising them.
I've lost my phone and none of my photos were backed up.	I need a profile picture for a social media account, but I don't want to use a photo of myself.	I think one of my neighbours is using my wifi network!
