English lessons

We spoke to five language learners. They talked about their experience of learning English and gave us their advice for anyone struggling to learn English.

Aisha
I'm currently on a language exchange in London because I was motivated to experience the culture and practise my English. I'm staying with an English family, but, the truth is, they're quite boring. We haven't been on any excursions and they're always watching TV. I'd have learnt more if I'd gone to a language school in my own country. I'd recommend taking the time to choose the right family if you're planning on going on a language exchange. I should have thought it through more carefully myself.

Ronnie
I've been doing an online English course and it's better than I expected. At school, we only used to study grammar, but this is more focused on communication. Each lesson has a video where an expert breaks the language down so that it's easy to understand. The only disadvantage is not having a real teacher to deal with your questions. If you want to study online, you should be ready to think your problems through alone. If you need a teacher looking over your shoulder, it probably isn't for you.

Layla
I'm studying English as an optional subject at university. I'm doing a degree in international relations and my tutor encouraged me to study English as well. She said it would be useful for my career, especially if I end up working abroad. It's definitely deepened my interest in the language. The only thing is that I nearly failed the exam last term. It was my own fault, though, because I didn't prepare for it. If you're studying a language, be careful not to put off studying until the last moment!

Yusuf
A friend of mine speaks amazing English and she inspired me to improve. In fact, I hope to speak English as well as her one day. I'd intended to sign up for classes at a language school, but then I had the opportunity to do them at work. I was pleased because if I'd gone to a language school, it would have cost quite a lot. If you ever get the chance to have free classes, you should make the most of it because you can save a fortune.

Marion
English has been a lifelong passion of mine and I've been attending the same language school for the last nine years. The classes are very communicative, so, during activities, the teacher usually listens and writes down our mistakes. Then she follows up on them at the end of the activity and we try to figure out the corrections. If you're new to learning English, don't be afraid to speak in class. It can be tough at first, but the best way to master the language is by using it as much as possible.

4 Read the article again. Choose the correct answer (A, B, C or D).

1 Aisha
A has learnt more than if she had stayed at home.
B is enjoying her time staying with an English family.
C would like to be able to understand English TV better.
D didn't consider the facts of the exchange properly.

2 Ronnie
A thinks that you need to investigate things alone in online courses.
B says that he would prefer to spend more time studying grammar.
C complains that the website he uses to study keeps breaking down.
D argues that most people need a teacher to help them study.

3 Layla
A failed her last exam because she didn't prepare.
B has become more interested in English recently.
C thinks it can be helpful to delay studying sometimes.
D blames her tutor for mistakes she has made.

4 Yusuf
A wants to inspire other people to start studying English.
B plans to start studying English in a language school.
C hasn't ever studied English in a language school before.
D doesn't have to pay for the English classes he attends.

5 Marion
A has been working in a language school for several years.
B is sometimes afraid of making mistakes in her English lessons.
C is given the chance to solve language problems with the teacher.
D had expected the classes to focus more on communication.
