Speaking

Teacher's notes

Task 1

Both students are looking at six photos.

Prompt: Look at the photos of problems that people have. Talk about what the problem is in each photo and discuss what you would do if you had each of these problems.

Supplementary questions

(Use these questions for further practice if necessary.)

Prompt: Now discuss these questions.

1 Have you ever complained about anything? (If yes) What did you complain about? What did you say? What happened after you complained? (If no) What would you say if you needed to complain about something? What happens if you complain about something?

2 How do you normally travel around your area? What's the public transport like? What do you do when it's crowded?

3 Do you live in a noisy area or a quiet area? Is that good or bad? Why?

Task 2

Prompt: Student A: Look at the photo and describe it to your partner. What do you think are the good points about buying food in this way? And what are the bad points?

Prompt: Student B: Look at the photo and describe it to your partner. What do you think are the good points about buying food in this way? And what are the bad points?

Further discussion questions

(Use these questions to open up the discussion.)

Prompt: Now discuss these questions.

1 What's the best way to buy things, do you think – on the Internet, or in a shop? Why? Does it depend what you want to buy?

2 How often do you go shopping in your town? What sort of things do you like buying?

3 Do you ever buy things that you don't really need, or you know that you can't really afford? What sort of things?

Sample answers and mark schemes

Task 1

Can make a complaint.

Student A and B dialogue

A Right, let's have a look at the photos, shall we? Every morning I go to school by bus, and it's often really crowded, so I know that's annoying.

B Yeah, and that person listening to loud music – sometimes it's so loud, you can even hear it through their headphones, and I can't listen to my music! And some people have really long conversations on their phones, don't they?

A That's right – I can't read my book then – I can't concentrate. And what about these things that you might buy? The broken mobile phone, for instance?

B Well, I'd definitely complain about that. I'd return it and get a refund. And if something was wrong with any clothes I had bought, I'd complain about them too.

Speaking

A I know. Often clothes are reduced, but they're not really a bargain when they have a hole in them! So finally – what about the food? Have you ever complained about bad food?

B Yes – my friends and I had some awful burgers once, in a café near my home. They weren't cooked! We told the owner and he gave us our money back. We've never been there again!

The task is worth 10 marks. Award up to 2 marks for each section of the mark scheme, according to the descriptions below.

Marks	Task achievement	Spoken production and fluency	Spoken interaction	Range	Accuracy
0-1	Describes some aspects of the photos but doesn't really mention what he/she would do about these problems. Doesn't fully answer the task question.	Hesitates a lot and does not seem confident. Is not easy to understand.	Does not engage with the listener.	Uses only very basic vocabulary and grammar, with a lot of errors.	Lots of errors even in basic language, which impede communication.

Task 2

Can briefly give reasons for explanations for opinions, plans and actions.

Student A

Well, my photo is of someone shopping in a supermarket. In the picture you can see a supermarket trolley but you can't see the person pushing it, only their hands. It looks like a woman. The trolley is full of food, with lots of fruit on top. I can see grapes and bananas. Under the fruit, I think, there are some boxes and tins of food. I can see shelves behind the trolley with cleaning products, so I think this person is in the aisles. They haven't finished shopping yet. The good points about supermarket shopping are that it's quick and easy, and you can get anything you need there. It's often cheaper than a local shop too. But the bad point is that it's really crowded at the weekends, and you often need a car to get there. The really big ones are usually out of town.

Student B

Let's see – my photo shows an outdoor market. Someone is handing a basket of vegetables to a customer, some cucumbers and tomatoes. All the food is displayed in baskets. There are apples, lemons and some eggs. Everything looks very fresh and delicious. There are no plasic bags or containers in the picture so I think this market is very ecological. The person selling the food looks very happy – I guess they are happy to sell their food, perhaps that's the person that's grown the vegetables. It's a sunny day too, and it looks as if it's somewhere in the countryside, so it all looks very nice. The good points about buying food like this is that it's very fresh and healthy, and you don't have lots of packaging like you do in a supermarket. But the bad points are that you have to travel to a special market, and I think it's very expensive to buy food here too.
