

1A GRAMMAR: present simple be: I, you

Four in a row

Materials: One worksheet per pair

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game to practise be with I, you. Put students in pairs and give each pair a worksheet. Explain the game. Students take turns to choose a square, with student A beginning. Student B reads the question on that square aloud and Student A answers it. If Student A gives a grammatically correct answer, they 'win' the square and place their initials in it (direct students to the example answers and prompts at the bottom of the sheet to help them answer the questions). Student B then takes a turn, and so on. Circulate during the activity, assisting as required.

Encourage students to add extra information to their answers, e.g.

A: Are you from Argentina?

B: No, I'm not. I'm from Beijing in China.

The first student to get a line of four squares in a row vertically, horizontally or diagonally wins the game.

To extend the activity, pairs can take turns to ask and answer questions in any unused squares.

As an optional follow-up, students move around the class and ask questions to five different students, either with or without the prompt sheet.

As a simple alternative to the game, students can take turns to choose any five questions to ask a partner. Then they swap partners and ask five different questions.

1A VOCABULARY: countries and nationalities

Think fast!

Materials: One worksheet per group of three, cut into cards

Time: 10–15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do a matching activity, then play a game to practise words for countries and nationalities. Put students in groups of three and give each group a set of cards. To demonstrate the activity, write or say the sentence 'I'm from Spain.' and elicit a response with the nationality, e.g. 'You're Spanish.' Groups work together to match the countries with the nationalities. When they have finished, check answers by having students chorally call back the match, e.g. Teacher: 'I'm from France.' Students: 'You're French.'

Explain and demonstrate the game. In their groups, students spread the cards with You're ... face up on the desk and place the cards with I'm ... in a pile face down. Students take turns to draw an I'm ... card from the pile and read it aloud, e.g. 'I'm from Brazil.' The other students in the group have to pick up the card that matches as quickly as possible. The first one to do so reads it aloud, e.g. 'You're Brazilian.' and keeps the pair. The student with the most pairs at the end is the winner. For extra practice, students could play the game again in reverse, i.e. the You're ... cards are in the pile and students race to grab the matching I'm ... card.

Alternatively, instead of students racing to pick up the correct card, they could simply race to say the sentence, then take the card as a 'point'.

As a follow-up activity, students can use the cards for a memory game. Students spread the cards out face down and take turns to take two cards, reading them aloud. If the cards are a pair, the student keeps them. If they are not a pair, they are replaced face down. The student with the most pairs at the end is the winner.

Materials: One worksheet per pair, cut in half

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise be with he, she, it. Put students in A/B pairs and give each student their half of the worksheet. Tell them not to show their sheets to each other. Go through the instructions and examples, reminding students of the question How do you spell that? if necessary. Circulate while students do the activity, assisting as required. When they have finished, they should check their answers and spelling on their partner's sheet.

If students find forming questions difficult, write prompts on the board to help.

1B VOCABULARY: jobs

Are you a/an ... ?

Materials: One card per student

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students they are going to do a class activity to practise vocabulary for jobs. Give each student a card and tell them not to show it to anybody. Tell them that they have the job in the picture and to write the job on their card.

Write the following prompts on the board:

Are you a/an ... ? Yes, I am. No, I'm not. I'm a ...

Explain that students need to move around the classroom, asking and answering the questions with different people to find the jobs on their cards. When they answer 'Yes, I am.' / 'No, I'm not.', tell them to show the picture on their card to the other student. Encourage students to practise greetings when they start with a new partner, e.g. 'Hi / Hello / Hey / Good morning / Good afternoon'. When students find a person they are looking for, they write their name down. This continues until everyone has found the people they are looking for.

To finish, go around the class and ask each student to say their job (in the game), e.g. 'I'm a bus driver, I'm a police officer', etc. You could then ask one or two confident students to report what they found out, e.g. 'Yuki is a bus driver. Hans is a waiter.'

If you have a class with more than ten students, you can duplicate some of the cards, ensuring there is at least one of each.

1C HOW TO ... ask and answer simple questions

Ask and check – famous people

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise asking and answering simple questions. Give each student a worksheet and preteach the word famous. For Ex 1, explain that without telling anyone, each person needs to choose a famous person to be for the activity, e.g. their favourite sportsperson, singer, actor, etc. The famous person needs to have a first name and a surname and they need to be able to spell it (they can ask you or check on their phones for spelling if necessary). They must also choose a phone number of at least six numbers and write it on their sheet. Give students a couple of minutes to choose the person and the phone number.

Ask students to complete Ex 2, then check answers as a class. Go through the instructions to Ex 3 and the example conversation (you could ask two students to read the conversation aloud for the class). Conduct a class mingle. Students ask and answer the questions to find out about each other as famous people. Circulate during the mingle, assisting if necessary. As a follow-up, ask a few students to conduct their conversation in front of the class. Alternatively, go around the class and ask students to reveal the famous identities of the people they met.

2A GRAMMAR: present simple be: we, you, they

We're on holiday!

Materials: One worksheet per group of three

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise we, you, they and be. Put students in groups of three and give them a worksheet. Go through the instructions to Ex 1. Explain that students can choose anywhere to be on holiday and that there is more than one correct answer to each question. Emphasise that students should use we, not I forms to answer the questions asking about you. Give students time to write answers to the questions while you circulate, providing assistance as required.

For Ex 2, put groups together to ask and answer the questions, encouraging students to take turns to speak.

For Ex 3, go through the instructions, example and prompts. Students could ask you questions about a place of your choice as an example. Encourage groups to choose well-known places. Each group could ask up to ten yes/no questions, using the questions from Ex 1, the examples, or their own ideas. Circulate to monitor appropriate use of we, you, they and be.

2A VOCABULARY: numbers 11–100

Where is ... ?

Materials: One worksheet per pair

Time: 10 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise numbers 11–100. Put students in pairs and give each pair a worksheet. Ask 'Where is seventeen?' and get them to point to number 17 on the worksheet. Explain that students should take turns to choose a number from the sheet and ask their partner 'Where is [the number ...]?' As the numbers are said and located, students tick them to avoid repeating items.

You could give students a fixed time, e.g. five minutes, to see how many numbers they can locate in that time.

Alternatively, the activity can be done in threes as a game. Students take turns to ask where numbers are. The first of the other two students to point to the number 'wins' it, writing their initials in the circle. The student who has the most circles when they are all found is the winner.

As an extension activity, students could write ten of their own numbers from 11–100 on the worksheet and repeat the activity.

Noughts and crosses

Materials: One worksheet per pair

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game of noughts and crosses to practise possessive adjectives. Check students know how to play the game by demonstrating on the board. (Students take turns to put a O or a X in a square. If a player gets three of their symbols in a row, they win the game.) Put students in pairs and give each pair a worksheet, showing them the noughts and crosses illustration. Tell students that in this version of the game, to win a square, they must read the sentence aloud and circle the correct possessive adjective. If they are unsure of an answer, they can check it with you. Circulate as students play the two games, checking answers as necessary.

To extend the activity after both games have been played, pairs can take turns to complete any unused squares. When all students have finished playing, you could also elicit answers for all the squares for students to double-check their answers.

Memory match

Materials: one worksheet per pair, cut into cards

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do a matching activity, then play a game to practise vocabulary for people. Put students in pairs and give each pair a set of cards. Ask students to match the words and the photos, then check answers as a class, paying special attention to the differences in pronunciation between man/men and woman/women.

Next, demonstrate the game. Students spread out the cards face down on the table, then take turns to pick up two cards: one word card and one photo card. They then say aloud what they are, e.g. 'a baby', 'women', etc. If the cards match, the student keeps the pair and takes another turn. If they do not match, the cards are put back face down and the other student takes a turn. The student with the most pairs when all the cards have been matched is the winner.

To finish, students could take turns to practise saying personalised sentences about family and friends using the words on the cards, e.g. 'I am a woman. My brothers, Javier and Kike, are men. My children are a boy and a girl. My friend's baby is one year old.'

3A GRAMMAR: possessive 's

My friend's favourite colour ...

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 30 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise possessive 's. Give each student a worksheet. Ask students to look at Ex 1 and circle their favourite colour, referring them to the Vocabulary Bank for colours on p128 in the Student's Book if necessary.

Explain that for Ex 2, students will ask questions about colours with possessive 's. Write How do you spell your name? on the board as a prompt if necessary. Students mingle and ask a different student each question. When they have completed their grid, they sit down. Before Ex 3, brainstorm other words for family, friends and things in addition to the information from Ex 2 and write them on the board, e.g. brother, sister, mother, father, husband, wife, son, daughter, friend, car, bike, house.

For Ex 3, students write their sentences, checking any that they are unsure of. When they have finished, go through the instructions and examples for Ex 4. Point out that when students respond to a sentence, they can use one of their sentences or another idea (with possessive 's). Circulate as students do the activity, assisting if necessary. Finish by eliciting some things students found they had in common. With a stronger class, you could point out the possible use of a double possessive 's by saying, 'My friend's favourite colour is red and Noah's friend's favourite colour is red.'

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do a quiz to practise words for things. Give each student a worksheet and read through item 1 with the class, eliciting that students should briefly look at the photos and write car in the gap. Give students time to complete the questions from the quiz, working in pairs if necessary. When they have finished, go through the answers as a class, writing the words on the board so students can check their spelling. Students then pick their favourite of each of the three options for each category by choosing A, B or C. Explain that students will now compare their favourite items in pairs or small groups. Go through the example conversation on the worksheet. Circulate while students discuss their quizzes, assisting if necessary.

As an optional follow-up, ask students to write three sentences about the favourite things in their groups. Remind them to include pronouns, e.g. My/His/Her/Our and/or possessive 's. Elicit some sentences in class feedback e.g. 'My favourite car is A, but Marie's favourite is B. Her favourite camera is C, but my favourite is B. Our favourite watch is C.'

3B GRAMMAR: present simple have + yes/no questions (I, you, we, they)

Do you have ... ?

Materials: One worksheet per group of four, cut into cards

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game to practise yes/no questions with have. Write the prompts Do you have ... ? and Yes, I do. / No, I don't. on the board.

Put students in groups of four and give each group a set of cards. Give students a minute or two to look at the cards, then demonstrate the game. Students mix up the cards and spread them out face down on the desk. Each student takes two cards, but doesn't show them to the others in the group. Note: if a student draws two cards showing the same object, they put one of them back and draw another card so they have two different objects.

Students then take turns to ask any other student in the group if they have a card they need to make matching pairs using 'Do you have ... ?', e.g. 'Moshen, do you have sticky notes?' The student replies, 'Yes, I do.' or 'No, I don't.' The student must give away the card if they have it to the student asking, so that a pair can be made and put to one side. The asker then draws another card and play moves to the next student. When there are no cards left on the desk, play continues until all the cards are paired. The student with the most pairs of cards is the winner.

To follow-up, students take turns to list the pairs they have aloud in their groups, e.g. 'I have a pair of sticky notes / I have a pair of pens / I have a pair of keyboards.' Point out the plural of mouse is mice for both the animal and the computer part, e.g. 'I have two mice ...'

As an extension or alternative, students can play the game in teams of two, using 'Do you have ... ?' 'Yes, we do.' / 'No, we don't.'

Bingo

Materials: One worksheet per group of 3–4, cut into four bingo photo cards and a set of sentence cards

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game of bingo to practise vocabulary for desk objects. Give each student a bingo card A–D, ensuring there are an equal number of the same cards in the class. If your class does not split into groups of four, groups of three are fine, but do not use card D if this is the case. Ask students to work in pairs with someone with a different card, naming the items on both their cards and checking the differences between them. Circulate while they are doing this, assisting students with any words they are unsure of. Put students in A/B/C/D groups and give each group a set of shuffled sentence cards. Students place the sentence cards face down on the table, then take turns to pick one up and read it to the group, e.g. 'I have a bottle of water.' Students who have a bottle of water on their card (including the reader), put a tick next to it. The first student to tick all eight of their items calls out 'Bingo' and wins the game.

Alternatively, play the game as a class, with you calling out the items. As some students will have duplicate cards, the quickest to call 'Bingo' wins the game.

If you have enough counters available, students can cover the photos on their sheets with counters, when they are called.

As an optional follow-up, students could draw and complete their own desk objects grids on the back of their cards, then replay the game with their own grids.

3C HOW TO ... shop for clothes

Can I help you?

Materials: One worksheet per pair, cut into 10 sentence cards and one roleplay card

Time: 15–20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise asking about prices. Put students in pairs and give each pair a set of sentence cards a–j. Ask students to put the conversation in order, starting with card ‘a’. Circulate, providing assistance as necessary. If pairs find the ordering too challenging, help them by giving the first two or three answers. Check answers as a class.

Students keep their cards in order as prompts for the next part of the activity. Give pairs the larger card and explain that they will take turns to roleplay conversations as customers A–D on the card, and a shop assistant. Each time, a student chooses which customer to be, and chooses an item of clothing in the picture, and the shop assistant decides the price. Students who want to extend themselves could also ask about and choose the colour of the items, e.g. ‘Do you have any blue hats?’

As an optional follow-up, students could perform one of their roleplays for another pair or in front of the class.

ANSWERS:

a, d, f, h, e, i, j, b, g, c

POSSIBLE ROLEPLAY:

Customer: Excuse me?

Shop assistant: Can I help you?

Customer: How much is this coat, please?

Shop assistant: It's ninety euros. What size are you?

Customer: Medium.

Shop assistant: Here you are.

Customer: Can I try it on, please?

Shop assistant: Of course.

Customer: Where are the changing rooms?

Shop assistant: Over there.

4A GRAMMAR: adverbs of frequency

Food and drink survey

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do a survey (i.e. answer questions) to practise adverbs of frequency. Give each student a worksheet and time to complete the survey in Ex 1 individually, then put students in pairs or small groups.

For Ex 2, go through the examples and ask students to compare their answers, including the adverb of frequency and adding extra information if possible. Finish by asking a few students to share one of their sentences with an adverb of frequency, e.g. 'I sometimes eat lunch at my computer. I don't usually eat dinner at a restaurant.'

4A VOCABULARY: food and drink

Do you like ... ?

Materials: One card per student

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise food and drink vocabulary. To start, tell students about a food you like and a food you don't like, then ask 'What food do you like?' Elicit some ideas, e.g. 'I like pizza. I don't like vegetables. I like chocolate.' etc.

Give each student a card. Tell them that they need to find out which other students in the class like or don't like the food on their card and then report the answers to the class. Demonstrate an exchange with a student, e.g. ask 'Do you like carrots?' The student replies, 'Yes I do.' or 'No, I don't.' Point out that students then record the answers they are given as a tally mark on the lines next to 'Yes, I do.' / 'No, I don't.' Give students time to circulate to ask each other questions. When they have finished, each student tells the class what they found out, e.g. 'Eight people like carrots and three people don't like carrots.'

If you have a class with fewer than ten students, you could give out fewer cards. With a class larger than ten students, some can have duplicate cards.

As a follow-up activity, you could conduct a whole-class survey to find out what the students' most or least popular food is.

4B GRAMMAR: present simple: regular verbs (he, she, it)

People I know

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to talk about people they know to practise regular present simple verbs with he, she, it. Give each student a worksheet and go through the instructions to Ex 1. Emphasise that students should write the names in the grid out of order and that they should write a different name in each box. For example, it could be a friend, a family member or a famous person. Give students time to complete the grid, assisting as required.

For Ex 2, go through the instructions and example sentences. Ask a volunteer about one of their people on their sheet as another example. In pairs, students ask about the people in each other's grids. Encourage stronger students to say more than one sentence about each person if possible. e.g. 'My sister studies a lot. She likes her school. It starts at 8 a.m. and finishes at 3 p.m.' Circulate, monitoring for correct use and pronunciation of the verb forms and assisting if necessary.

Alternatively, use the top part of the sheet (items 1–12) for a class mingle. Model a question and an answer:

A: Who do you know for Number (8)?

B: My cousin, Pavel. He works a lot!

Students walk around the class and talk to each other to find a different person for each sentence (1–12), then compare what they found out in pairs.

4B GRAMMAR: present simple: regular verbs (he, she, it)

People I know

1 Think of people you know for nine of the sentences (1–12) below. Write each name in a square in the grid. Don't write them in order.

- 1 She/He likes their job.
- 2 She/He gets up early.
- 3 She/He doesn't eat meat.
- 4 She/He makes nice dinners.
- 5 She/He studies a lot.
- 6 She/He doesn't go to bed early.
- 7 She/He loves the countryside.
- 8 She/He works a lot.
- 9 She/He doesn't drink coffee.
- 10 She/He has a pet.
- 11 She/He goes to a lot of films.
- 12 She/He watches a lot of sports.

2 Work in pairs. Take turns to ask about each person.

A: Tell me about Carlos. B: Carlos is my brother. He gets up early for work.

4B VOCABULARY: everyday activities (1)

Order your day

Materials: One set of cards per group of three

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do two activities to practise vocabulary for everyday activities. Put students in groups of three and give each group a set of cards. Tell groups to spread the cards out face up and take turns to act out one of the sentences for the other students to guess. Act out a sentence as an example, e.g. mime cooking something at home and elicit the sentence you are trying to perform (I make dinner.) Students act out two or three sentences each.

Students then work together to order the cards into a daily routine, starting with I get up. Point out that there is more than one possible order for the cards. Fast finishers could talk about the times they do each activity using adverbs of frequency and times of day, e.g.

A: I always get up at seven.

B: I usually get up at six, but I get up at ten on Sundays.

When students have finished, check answers as a class.

POSSIBLE ANSWER:

I get up.
 I leave home.
 I go to work.
 I start work.
 I have lunch.
 I finish work.
 I get home.
 I make dinner.
 I watch TV.
 I go to bed.

4C HOW TO ... order in a café

At the counter

Materials: One worksheet per pair, cut in half

Time: 15–20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do a roleplay to practise ordering in a café. Point out that in some cafés, people order at the counter, like they would in a shop. This is what students will do in this roleplay. Put students in pairs and give each student a card. Give students time to read their card and the instructions. Tell Student B that they should start by asking 'Can I help you?' Students roleplay the situation, using the images and prices on their cards to help them. When they have finished, they swap cards and roles.

With a weaker class, you could read out the model answer below (or ask two students to read it out) as an example before the whole class does the roleplay. If necessary, students could work together to write their own conversation before acting it out.

POSSIBLE ANSWER:

B: Hello. Can I help you?

A: Yes. Can I have a bottle of water, please?

B: Of course. Still or sparkling?

A: Sparkling, please. How much is that pastry?

B: Let me check. It's three pounds.

A: Great, can I have two pastries, please?

B: Anything else?

A: No, thank you.

B: That's seven pounds, please.

A: Thank you.

B: Here you are.

A: Thank you.

4C HOW TO ... order in a café

- 1 Order a drink. Can I have ... , please?
- 2 Ask the price of some food and a drink. How much is ... ?
- 3 Order food and a drink. Can I have ... ?

Card B

You are the shop assistant.

- 1 Ask: Can I help you?
Listen and answer questions.
- 2 Ask: Anything else?
- 3 Say the price of all the food and drink. That's ...
- 4 Give the customer the food and drink. Here you are.

5A GRAMMAR: object pronouns

Snakes and ladders

Materials: One worksheet per pair or group of three, dice, counters

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game of snakes and ladders to practise object pronouns (you could preteach snake and ladder by drawing them on the board). Put students in pairs or groups of three. If dice are not available, students can write numbers 1–6 on small pieces of paper before they start the game. Students place their counters on the 'Start' square, then take turns to throw the dice (or take a numbered piece of paper without looking at it) and move that number of squares along the board. When they land on a square, they must complete the sentence with the correct object pronoun from the word box above the game board. If their answer is incorrect, students move back to the square they were on before. If they land on a square at the bottom of a ladder and answer the question correctly, they move up it. If they land on a square at the top of a snake and get the question wrong, they go down it. The first person to reach the 'Finish' square wins. While students are playing, monitor, assisting as necessary.

When students have finished, they can go back through and complete any of the sentences not completed during the game.

Alternatively, play the game as a team challenge. Put students in groups of three, then get them to work through the squares in order as quickly as possible (writing the answers) and see how many they can complete in five minutes. Check the answers as a class. The team with the most correct answers wins.

Check answers as a class, then ask students to read the sentences again and say if each one is true for them. If it isn't, they should change it so it is true (keeping the verb the same.) Give some examples. e.g. 'I always type notes in class.' might become 'I never type notes in class.' or 'I don't type notes in class.' If necessary, quickly revise adverbs of frequency students could use in their sentences (e.g. always, usually, often, sometimes, hardly ever, don't often, never). 5C HOW TO ... make requests and offers

In class

Materials: One worksheet per pair, cut in half

Time: 15–20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to practise making requests and offers in class. Give each student an A/B part of the worksheet and ask students to work with someone with the same part as them. Students read the scenarios together and discuss how they could make requests and offers, starting with Can/Could .... They will need to think carefully about whether the request or offer contains I or you. Circulate, providing assistance as required, then put students in A/B pairs to practise making the offers and requests.

If you have a weaker class, tell them to make all the offers first, then all the requests. If you have a stronger class, encourage them to make offers or requests in any order. Their partner needs to decide if it's an offer or a request to give an appropriate response. When students have finished, invite a few pairs to share one of their offers/requests and a response with the class.

As an optional extension, students could make their own offers and requests in a classroom context, e.g. 'Can I open a window? Can I help you with the activity? Can you help me with this word?'

POSSIBLE ANSWERS:

Student A: offers and requests

A: Can I get you a dictionary?

B: Yes, please.

A: Can I get you a hot drink after class?

B: I'm OK, thanks.

6A GRAMMAR: prepositions of place

Find the differences

Materials: One worksheet per pair, cut in half

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise prepositions of place. Give each student a half worksheet and explain that the A/B sheets are different. Put students in pairs with someone with the same half of the worksheet and give them a few minutes to make sentences (verbally) about where things are in their picture using prepositions of place, e.g. 'The book is on the bed.' Circulate during the activity, assisting as required, then put students in A/B pairs. Tell students not to show each other their picture, but to say sentences and find differences. Model the activity with this example:

A: In my picture, the box is under the table.

B: In my picture, the box is on the table.

Give students time to find as many differences as possible, then elicit the differences in class feedback.

For an easier alternative, students could look at both pictures when they are talking about the differences.

POSSIBLE ANSWERS:

In picture A, the book is on the bed. In picture B, it's under the bed.

In picture A, the box is under the table. In picture B, it's on the table.

6A VOCABULARY: rooms and furniture

What's the word for this in English?

Materials: One worksheet per group of three, cut into cards

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game to practise words for furniture. Write the question What's the word for this in English? on the board. Put students in groups of three and give each group a set of cards. Students place the picture cards in a pile face down, then distribute the word cards so they have four each. Demonstrate the game. Students take turns to pick up a picture card, show it to the other students and ask 'What's the word for this in English?' The person who has the correct word card answers, e.g. 'It's an armchair.' and keeps the picture card. (Others can help them if they're not sure of the answer.) The first student to collect four picture cards is the winner.

Students can play the game more than once, re-dealing the picture and word cards. Circulate during the game, assisting as required.

As optional follow-ups, students could use the word cards for a game of 'draw and guess'. They place the word cards in a pile face down. Students take turns to take a card without showing the others and draw it. The first to guess the word keeps the card. The student with the most cards at the end is the winner. Students could also discuss what room you can find each item in, e.g. kitchen, bathroom, bedroom, etc. Point out that some items, e.g. window can be in multiple rooms.

Put students in pairs and give each student half of the worksheet. Give them time to read Situation 1. Point out that Student A should give extra information using there is or there are if possible and that Student B's questions should start with 'Is there a ... ?' / 'Are there any ... ?' Students should mark the answers on the table provided (Y = Yes, N = No) making notes if they feel it is relevant. Circulate during the activity, assisting as required and monitoring for correct use of there is and there are. When students have finished the first situation, they swap roles and move to Situation 2. When they have finished, students show each other their sheets and check that they marked the correct items.

6B VOCABULARY: places in town (1)

Where can you ... ?

Materials: One set of cards per group of four

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game to practise words for places in town. Put students in groups of four with teams of two pairs. Give each group a set of cards face down and tell them not to look at them yet. Explain that teams will take turns to choose a card and read the questions and options to the other team, who chooses the correct option. Use the example below to model the activity:

Where can you get on a plane?

- a an airport
- b a bus station
- c a train station

Elicit the answer (an airport). Explain that each card has the answer underlined and also has a points value. Teams take turns to read out the questions and options. If a team answers correctly, they keep the card and win the points. If they do not answer correctly, it goes to the bottom of the pile. When all the cards have been used, the team with the most points wins.

Alternatively, the game can be played in pairs (i.e. one student against another).

6C HOW TO ... ask where a place is

Excuse me, where's the ... ?

Materials: One worksheet per pair, cut into three pieces

Time: 15 to 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to practise asking for directions. Put students in pairs. Give each pair a map and each student an A or B card. Tell students not to show each other their card. Ask students to look at the map and imagine that they are the people in the picture. Model the activity by asking 'Excuse me, how do I get to the baker's?' and eliciting an answer, e.g. 'It's on the left. It's opposite the shoe shop.' Point out that when giving directions in person, moving your hands is often important to help with meaning. Students take turns to give and follow instructions on the cards while you circulate, providing assistance. Finish by asking a few pairs to share one of their questions and answers with the class.

POSSIBLE ANSWERS:

Student A's questions

A: Excuse me, where's the cinema, please?

B: It's on the right. It's in front of the park.

A: Excuse me, is there a pharmacy near here?

B: Yes, there's a pharmacy on the left. It's opposite the butcher's.

A: Excuse me, how do I get to the supermarket?

B: It's on the left. It's next to the post office.

Student B's questions

B: Excuse me, how do I get to the post office?

A: It's on the left. It's next to the supermarket.

B: Excuse me, is there a shoe shop near here?

A: Yes. It's on the right. It's next to the cinema. It's opposite the baker's.

B: Excuse me, where is the park, please?

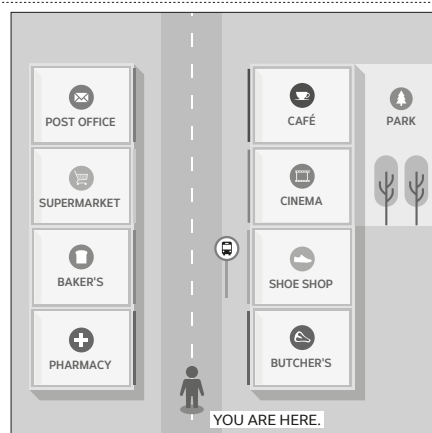

A: It's on the right. It's behind the café and the cinema.

7A GRAMMAR: present simple: wh- questions

Interviews

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 20–25 minutes

Tell students that they are going to interview each other to practise the present simple with wh- questions. Give each student a worksheet, direct them to Part A and ask them to write their name. For question 2, brainstorm things students might do for fun, e.g. play football, play guitar, watch films, learn English, read, go to restaurants, take photos, etc, and write them on the board. Tell students to write their answers to question 2 (they can use their own ideas if they wish). When they have completed Part A, ask students to swap their worksheet with the person next to them. They should read their partner's answers for Part A, then write interview questions about the activities that person does for fun. Elicit some sample questions or share the questions from the possible answers below as examples. Circulate while students write their questions, assisting as necessary. When they have finished, encourage them to check their questions with another student, checking anything they are unsure of with you. Students then interview each other, making notes on their partner's answers.

Finish by asking a few pairs to share a question and the answer (at least one for each question word).

POSSIBLE ANSWERS:

7A VOCABULARY: everyday activities (2)

Six shape sentences

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise words and phrases related to everyday activities. Give each student a worksheet and model the activity by drawing some shapes on the board and adding a few sample answers that are true for you, e.g. say: 'I don't often clean my apartment.' (then write my apartment in a shape). Tell students that they can use vocabulary from the lesson or their own ideas. Point out that there are only six shapes, but eight sentence prompts, so they don't need to do all of them. While students complete the sentences, circulate, providing assistance if necessary.

Put students in pairs, preferably with someone they haven't worked with yet in the lesson. Students tear or fold along the line on the worksheet, then swap shapes with their partner. Go through the instructions and the example for Ex 3. Students take turns to guess their partner's answers. If they guess the sentences correctly, they tick the shape. When they have finished, ask a few students to share something they learnt about their partner with the class.

POSSIBLE ANSWERS:

- 1 my bedroom / the kitchen / my apartment / the shower / the fridge / the windows / my laptop
- 2 rice / vegetables / eggs / dinner
- 3 an hour or two online / time with friends / time with my family / time alone
- 4 a hot drink / a shower / breakfast / fruit
- 5 my hair / my hands / my feet
- 6 my grandmother / my friends / museums / other cities
- 7 the dog / the cat / my children
- 8 homework / the shopping / exercise

7A VOCABULARY: everyday activities (2)

Six shape sentences

1 Write your own words to complete the sentences (1–8) below.

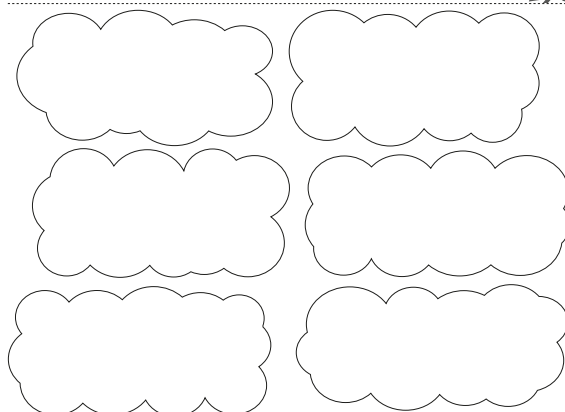

- 1 I don't often clean _____.
- 2 I often cook _____.
- 3 I sometimes spend _____ on Friday nights.
- 4 Every morning, I have _____.
- 5 I wash _____ every day.
- 6 I visit _____ in the holidays.
- 7 I usually feed _____ in the evenings.
- 8 On weekends, I never do _____.

2 Write the words you added from six of the sentences in the shapes below. Don't write them in order.

3 Work in pairs. Swap your shapes. Guess your partner's sentences.

A: You don't like cleaning your bedroom.

B: Correct!

7B GRAMMAR: was, were

Make a line

Materials: One worksheet per pair

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to play a game to practise was and were. Put students in pairs. Give each pair a worksheet and go through the instructions. To 'win' a shape, students must say the question correctly with was or were in the gap, and answer it. Write the following gapped sentence on the board How _____ the weather yesterday? Model 'winning' it with the class (How was the weather yesterday? It was hot/cold.) If they 'win' a shape on their worksheet, they mark it as theirs, e.g. with their initials or a coloured pen. Partners should check each others' answers. If they are not sure, they should check with you.

Circulate while students play the game, assisting as required. When one student has won the game by making a line of shapes across or down the board, ask pairs to work together to complete the remaining sentences. Finish by checking all the sentences as a class.

Alternatively, this game can be played in teams of two students, with pairs taking turns to complete the sentences and win shapes.

As an extension activity, students could work in pairs to write three sentences with missing was and were gaps, similar to those in the game, for another pair to complete.

7C HOW TO ... say you're not well

Poor you!

Materials: One worksheet per pair, cut into cards

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do some roleplays to practise saying they're not well. Put students in pairs and give each pair a set of sentence cards and picture cards. Explain that students need to put the sentence cards in order to make a conversation (starting with card A). Fast finishers can practise the conversation aloud. Check answers as a class.

Ask students to spread out the picture cards. Students take turns to choose one of the pictures and roleplay a conversation similar to the model they put in order. Circulate while students do their roleplays, assisting as needed with language and pronunciation. Model the pronunciation of the words with -ache, e.g. stomachache, toothache, headache if necessary. To finish, students could roleplay one of their conversations for another pair or in front of the class.

As an alternative, stronger students could place the cards face down in a pile and take turns to draw a card for each roleplay.

ANSWERS:

8A GRAMMAR: past simple: regular verbs

Yesterday, they ...

Materials: One worksheet per pair

Time: 20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise past simple regular verbs. Put students in pairs and give each pair a worksheet. Tell them that the pictures show things people did yesterday.

In their pairs, students take turns to say a sentence for each picture using one of the past simple regular verbs in the box above the pictures. They can help each other form the sentences if necessary. Elicit a sentence about the first picture as an example, e.g. Yesterday, she walked to class. Give students about five minutes to do the activity, then elicit ideas from the class.

Ask students to discuss in their pairs whether they did each of the things on the worksheet yesterday. If they didn't, they should change the sentences to the negative, e.g.

A: Yesterday, I walked to class. How about you?

B: No, I didn't walk to class yesterday.

Circulate while students are doing the task, assisting as required. As class feedback, invite a few students to share things they both did, e.g. 'Yesterday, we walked to class.' 'Yesterday, we didn't cook dinner.'

With a weaker group, elicit the past form of each verb and write these on the board. Then ask students to match the verbs with the pictures as a class and create past simple sentences about each picture.

For a longer activity, students could write sentences about the pictures or sentences about what they did yesterday.

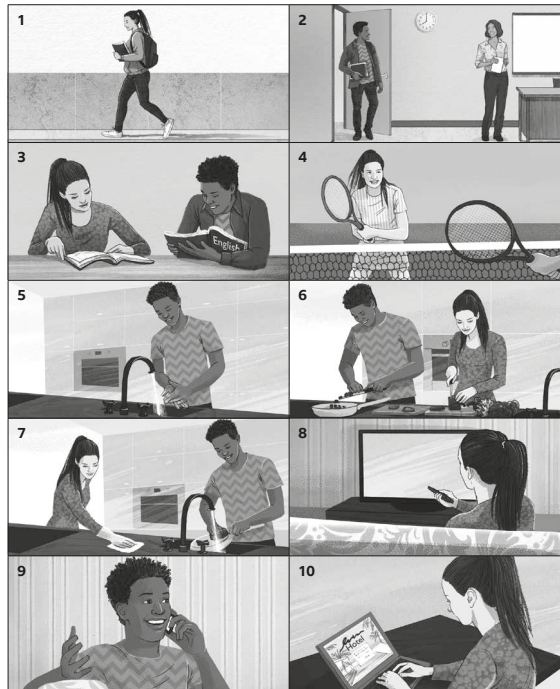

POSSIBLE ANSWERS:

- 1 Yesterday, she walked to class.
- 2 Yesterday, he arrived at 8 a.m.
- 3 Yesterday, they studied English.
- 4 Yesterday, she played tennis.
- 5 Yesterday, he washed his hands.

8A VOCABULARY: common verbs (2)

Find someone who ...

Materials: One worksheet per student

Time: 15–20 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do a class activity to practise common verbs. Give each student a copy of the worksheet. Give students time to read the sentence endings and elicit and write the question form for the first two items on the board, e.g. Do you like to arrive early on holiday? Do you often try different restaurants? Remind students that they need to use Do you in the question, and the correct form of the verb.

Conduct the class mingle. Ask students to try to find a different student to answer each question. Stronger students could ask follow-up questions, e.g. for sentence 1: 'Why do you like to arrive early?' Finish by asking each student to share something new that they found out about a classmate.

As an alternative, if your classroom is not suitable for mingles, or you have a small class, put students in groups to ask the questions and try and find someone who can answer each one. In this case, students can write names more than once on their worksheet.

ANSWERS:

Do you like to arrive early on holiday?
 Do you like to try different restaurants?
 Do you like to travel to new places?
 Do you plan holidays with your friends?
 Do you sometimes stay in a tent on holidays?

8B GRAMMAR: past simple: irregular verbs

Last week, I ...

Materials: One worksheet per group of three, cut into cards

Time: 15 minutes

Tell students that they are going to do an activity to practise the positive and negative forms of past simple irregular verbs. Put students in groups of three and give each group a set of cards. Ask students to work together to match the positive and negative past simple irregular verbs, e.g. bought, didn't buy. When students have finished, check answers as a class.

Write the following prompts on the board: Last year ..., Last week ..., Yesterday ... and This morning .... In their groups, students take turns to choose a verb card and make a true sentence with one of the prompts and the verb they see, e.g. 'This morning, I ate a banana.' / 'Yesterday, I didn't buy a coffee.' They then take the card away. The aim is to make a sentence with every card.

To add a competitive element to the sentence stage, set a timer for five minutes. Students get a point for each sentence and the one with the most points after five minutes wins.

Finish by eliciting an irregular past simple sentence from each student in the class. The other students listen and respond, e.g. by raising a hand or standing up, if the sentence is true for them.

Give each student a worksheet and preteach top in the title 'Top four' (an informal word for best / favourite). Direct students to the photos and explain that they are going to read about two students and their top four free-time activities. Students complete Ex 1 individually, then compare their answers in pairs before checking as a class.

For Ex 2, emphasise that students should use the verbs in the box but can also use their own ideas to complete the activity, e.g. play tennis, meet my family. You could give the sample answers below or list your own top four as an example. Point out that students should also list their four in order of preference, i.e. their favourite activity should be number 1. Give students time to write, while you circulate, assisting as required.

Put students in groups of three to four to compare their answers. As feedback, ask each group to report back to the class something interesting they learnt about another student or something they found that they had in common.
