1A Choose the correct word to complete the sentences.

1 Do / Are / What you studying at university?
2 What do / have / did you eat last night?
3 How many countries do / have / did you been to?
4 What are / will / do you doing next weekend?
5 Where has / does / is your best friend live?
6 I not / wasn't / didn't working when she arrived.
7 I'm sure the school doesn't / isn't / won't be open tomorrow.
8 She is / has / did worked in several cities.

B Work in pairs. Check your answers, then choose two questions to ask and answer.

2A Read the text. What do you have in common with Yusuf?

Hi, I'm Yusuf. I'm from Turkey, but at the moment I'm living in London, which is an amazing city. I'm going to stay here for six months so that I can improve my English. I love getting to know new cities, and I'm really happy that I chose to come to London. I've been to seven or eight fantastic museums and art galleries, and I also really like the parks. The best thing about London is that there are so many interesting things to do, especially for someone in their twenties, like me. The worst thing is the weather. I really hate cold weather. I arrived in January and it was freezing!

B Read the text again and find examples of

1 a present continuous verb.
2 a past simple verb.
3 a present perfect verb.
4 a verb form for future plans.
5 a superlative.
6 a modal verb.
7 a relative clause.
8 a verb + -ing form.

1 My sister don't like football.
2 Which film you watch last night?
3 I'm from france.
4 We love listening music.
5 Let's discuss about this later.
6 When I can go home?
7 I'm teacher.
8 I live here since 2018.

B Decide which mistakes in Ex 4A are connected with these things.

1 a missing preposition
2 an extra preposition
3 a verb tense
4 word order
5 a missing auxiliary verb
6 punctuation or capitalisation
7 verb–noun agreement
8 a missing article

FUTURE SKILLS
Social responsibility

The media often describes people like Lou, Zeal and James as good people or heroes. Define a good person. Are the people in the texts good people? Which famous people do you think are good? Why?

A
Food is Free

Lou Ridsdale loves gardening. In a small space next to her home in Ballarat, Australia, she grows vegetables. One day, she heard about a man in Los Angeles who grew food to share with the community. He belonged to an organisation called Food is Free. Ridsdale saw that she had more vegetables than she needed and decided to give them away, like the man in Los Angeles.

In Ballarat, just 6.4 percent of people eat the recommended amount of vegetables. A lot of people in the city have low incomes and the city has many problems connected to what people eat: lack of affordable food and lack of education about healthy eating. Ridsdale wanted to change this.

www.frenglish.ru

After leaving the food outside her home, she put up a sign inviting people to help themselves. Soon volunteers were bringing food for those in need. People usually bring fruit and vegetables but sometimes plants and seeds, too. There is no money involved, no food bill to pay, only kindness. Helping people is what Ridsdale does. She says that no one is judged on what they bring or take as long as they leave with a smile. She makes sure they always do.

Apart from feeding people, Ridsdale understands that education is the other important part of the programme. Once the programme was established, she began to go into schools to talk about food. She believes that young people need to learn about healthy eating. This will help to make their lives healthier and better. She hopes to see her idea catch on all over Australia.

PRONUNCIATION | rhythm and intonation

conversation topics

1 A Look at the photo. What do you think a 'Happy to chat bench' is? Who do you think might use it?

B Read the text to check your ideas.

The benefits of talking to strangers

Most of us spend part of our day surrounded by strangers, perhaps when travelling to work, sitting in a park or a café or visiting the supermarket. We are together with other people, but nobody talks. However, research shows that starting up a conversation with a stranger can make you feel happier and enjoy your day more.

When Allison Owen-Jones saw a man sitting alone on a bench in the park, she wanted to talk to him, but she felt uncomfortable because she wasn't sure he would want to chat. Then she had an idea: 'Happy to chat benches'. She made a sign to put on park benches which said, 'Happy to chat bench. Sit here if you don't mind someone stopping to say hello.' The idea was a success. Now 'Happy to chat benches' can be found in several countries including Canada, the USA, Australia, Switzerland and Ukraine.

So, the next time you see someone sitting alone, give them a smile and say hello. You never know: they might be happy to talk.

C Work in groups. Answer the questions.

1 How often do you talk to people you don't know? In what places?
2 Do you think 'Happy to chat benches' would be a good idea where you live? Why/Why not?
3 Which topics do you think are suitable or not suitable for talking to people you don't know?

2 A Match the questions for starting a conversation (1–9) with the topics in the box.

FUTURE SKILLS
Communication

To keep a conversation going, it is important to listen actively and show you are interested in what the other person says. Ask questions like 'How about you?' or other questions that encourage the other person to talk.

Look at the audioscripts on page 158. What questions do the speakers ask to encourage the other person to talk?

B Work in pairs.

Student A: You are sitting on a 'Happy to chat bench' near the station. Think about where you are and why you are sitting there. Someone comes to the bench to talk to you. Continue the conversation.

Student B: You see someone sitting on a 'Happy to chat bench' near the station and decide to talk to them. Think about why you are there. Then start a conversation.

C In your pairs, reflect on the activity in Ex 7B. Was it easy or difficult to start the conversation and keep it going? Why?

D Work in a different pair. Think about a different place for your 'Happy to chat bench', and think about why you are there. Then have a conversation. Talk about different topics.

WRITING

a blog post about a day in your life

5A Read the blog post. In what ways is Kim's lifestyle similar and different to yours?

A day in my life

Kim, games designer (UK)

I'm a games designer and I live in Hackney in London. On a typical day, my alarm goes off at 6.00 a.m. and I try not to look at my emails or start work immediately. First, I do a bit of yoga and make a cup of green tea. I have a fairly healthy breakfast – some cereal with milk, or some toast, and then I cycle to work. It takes about twenty minutes and I find it really relaxing. At work, the first thing I do is switch on my computer and read my emails. For lunch, I get some noodles or something from one of the Vietnamese cafés or restaurants near to where I work. After work I like to meet up with friends for dinner, or go out somewhere. I love going to the cinema or the theatre or just staying at home listening to music.

B Write a blog post about a day in your life. Use some modifiers and write about:

- what time you usually get up.
- what you do first in the morning.
- how you travel to work or college.
- what you have for lunch.
- what you enjoy doing in the evenings.

FUTURE SKILLS
Social responsibility

The media often describes people like Lou, Zeal and James as good people or heroes. Define a good person. Are the people in the texts good people? Which famous people do you think are good? Why?

A
Food is Free

Lou Ridsdale loves gardening. In a small space next to her home in Ballarat, Australia, she grows vegetables. One day, she heard about a man in Los Angeles who grew food to share with the community. He belonged to an organisation called Food is Free. Ridsdale saw that she had more vegetables than she needed and decided to give them away, like the man in Los Angeles.

In Ballarat, just 6.4 percent of people eat the recommended amount of vegetables. A lot of people in the city have low incomes and the city has many problems connected to what people eat: lack of affordable food and lack of education about healthy eating. Ridsdale wanted to change this.

After leaving the food outside her home, she put up a sign inviting people to help themselves. Soon volunteers were bringing food for those in need. People usually bring fruit and vegetables but sometimes plants and seeds, too. There is no money involved, no food bill to pay, only kindness. Helping people is what Ridsdale does. She says that no one is judged on what they bring or take as long as they leave with a smile. She makes sure they always do.

Apart from feeding people, Ridsdale understands that education is the other important part of the programme. Once the programme was established, she began to go into schools to talk about food. She believes that young people need to learn about healthy eating. This will help to make their lives healthier and better. She hopes to see her idea catch on all over Australia.

B Read the text to check your ideas.

The benefits of talking to strangers

Most of us spend part of our day surrounded by strangers, perhaps when travelling to work, sitting in a park or a café or visiting the supermarket. We are together with other people, but nobody talks. However, research shows that starting up a conversation with a stranger can make you feel happier and enjoy your day more.

When Allison Owen-Jones saw a man sitting alone on a bench in the park, she wanted to talk to him, but she felt uncomfortable because she wasn't sure he would want to chat. Then she had an idea: 'Happy to chat benches'. She made a sign to put on park benches which said, 'Happy to chat bench. Sit here if you don't mind someone stopping to say hello.' The idea was a success. Now 'Happy to chat benches' can be found in several countries including Canada, the USA, Australia, Switzerland and Ukraine.

So, the next time you see someone sitting alone, give them a smile and say hello. You never know: they might be happy to talk.

C Work in groups. Answer the questions.

1 How often do you talk to people you don't know? In what places?
2 Do you think 'Happy to chat benches' would be a good idea where you live? Why/Why not?
3 Which topics do you think are suitable or not suitable for talking to people you don't know?

2 A Match the questions for starting a conversation (1–9) with the topics in the box.

WRITING

a blog post about a day in your life

5A Read the blog post. In what ways is Kim's lifestyle similar and different to yours?

A day in my life

Kim, games designer (UK)

I'm a games designer and I live in Hackney in London. On a typical day, my alarm goes off at 6.00 a.m. and I try not to look at my emails or start work immediately. First, I do a bit of yoga and make a cup of green tea. I have a fairly healthy breakfast – some cereal with milk, or some toast, and then I cycle to work. It takes about twenty minutes and I find it really relaxing. At work, the first thing I do is switch on my computer and read my emails. For lunch, I get some noodles or something from one of the Vietnamese cafés or restaurants near to where I work. After work I like to meet up with friends for dinner, or go out somewhere. I love going to the cinema or the theatre or just staying at home listening to music.

B Write a blog post about a day in your life. Use some modifiers and write about:

- what time you usually get up.
- what you do first in the morning.
- how you travel to work or college.
- what you have for lunch.
- what you enjoy doing in the evenings.

The lives of stories: from cave paintings to video games

In December 2019, researchers in Indonesia found a cave with paintings on its walls. The paintings were 40,000 years old. The researchers realised that this was the earliest story ever told through art.

Storytelling is as old as language. Stories are everywhere and in every culture. India, China and Mexico all have their own version of the fairytale Cinderella. People in the Middle East have told the story of Little Red Riding Hood for a thousand years. Australian First Nation people tell stories about how the first people sang the world into existence.

Good stories last forever because they entertain us and teach us important life lessons. They show that there are good and bad people, dangers, problems and solutions. Stories often help us to see ourselves more clearly and to see how we can become better people.

Stories have always been important, but the ways we tell them have changed through time. Before the development of writing, people told their stories aloud. Then writing and books came along and changed all that. Now, with virtual reality and gaming technology, stories are more interactive than before. The players help to create the story. They choose names for their heroes, and decide where characters go, what they do and how they interact with other characters.

Video games and online media are a way for us to become storytellers. Video games are the world's most popular form of entertainment, bigger than films or TV shows, and their popularity grows every year. It seems that we all enjoy taking control and getting involved in stories, rather than just reading or watching them.

Humans are the storytelling animal. The things we love about stories don't change – an exciting plot, interesting characters, a great hero, humour in comedies, fear in horror films and maybe a happy ending. New technologies have brought exciting new ways to tell stories, and no doubt storytelling will continue to change and develop in the future.

B Complete the text with the correct form of get or make.

That's a bad excuse!

Are you planning an excuse for not going to work? Then try to make it a good one. Here are some of the worst excuses we've ever heard.

'My dog's unwell.' Don't [1] ..... the mistake of saying your pet is ill when everyone knows you don't have one.

'I fell asleep, so I didn't [2] ..... off the bus.' No good when your boss knows that you drive to work.

'I thought it was Saturday today.' So, you [3] ..... the wrong day? Do you want your colleagues to think you don't know what day it is?

'I fell over and broke my toe.' This is OK, but you need to [4] ..... a plan to get back to work. You'll have to pretend you can't walk properly for a few weeks!

'First I [5] ..... held up in a traffic jam, so I drove a different way, but then I [6] ..... lost.' You've worked at the same place for five years, but can't find your way to work?

And finally, 'I spilled my breakfast and it [7] ..... a mess on my shirt, and I don't have a clean one.' Do you want our advice? If you can't think of a good excuse, don't even [8] ..... the call to the office!

C Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

1 When was the last time you got lost?
2 Who usually makes a mess where you live?
3 When was the last time you got held up at work or somewhere else? What happened?
4 What plans have you made for the next few days?
5 Have you ever taken a train or bus and got off at the wrong place?

a review of a place

6A Read the review. How has Cornwall changed, according to the writer?

Cornwall: Then and now

I first went to Cornwall on a family holiday when I was a child. At that time, the villages were very small and the beaches were usually empty. Historically, the area was known for its fishing. I remember we used to spend all day on the beach and then walk into town in the evening to eat fish and chips. The towns and villages were quiet and only a few people were wandering around. Nowadays, Cornwall is one of the most popular tourist destinations in the UK, and it's becoming more popular every year. In the past, there were only a few campsites and one or two cheap hotels. Nowadays, the campsites are full and you have to book months in advance and the hotels are more expensive. Cornwall is still one of the most beautiful places to visit. It's well known for its beaches and surfing, and there are lots of places you can explore. I really recommend it for families or for anybody who enjoys exploring beautiful coastlines.

B Write a review of a place that you know. Write about:

- when you first went there.
- what it was like then.
- how it has changed.
- what it is like now.
- who you would recommend it for and why.

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my interest in applying for a six-month internship at Leavis and Dunn. Before I formally apply, I would like to ask some questions.

In the advertisement, there is no mention of accommodation. Does Leavis and Dunn provide help with finding housing? If so, would this be shared housing? I would also like to know the type of work involved in the internship. Would I be working in the office or with clients?

Thank you for your attention and I hope to hear from you soon.

Yours faithfully,

Andrea Boesman

Subject: French class

Hi Liz,

Nice to chat the other day!

Can you send me some info about that French class you mentioned? What's the cost? Are the lessons in the teacher's home or in a public place (café, library, etc.)? Also, what time's the class? I'm working till 6 p.m. so need evening classes.

Thanks! Hope to see you soon.

1 Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

1 Are you good or bad at making decisions? What kinds of decisions do you find easy and difficult?
2 When you have an important decision to make, who do you discuss it with? Why?

When I have an important decision to make, I usually discuss it with my partner …

2A You are going to read an article about making decisions. Read the title and the paragraph headings. What is the main message of the article?

a Life is full of decisions – either you are good at making them or you are not.
b There are different ways to arrive at the best decision.
c It is always a good idea to sleep before you make a big decision.

B Read the article. Then work in pairs and answer the questions.

1 What two types of decision does the article talk about?
2 Why is it important to reduce the number of decisions you make in a day?
3 What did Barack Obama do to help him make important decisions?
4 What is the problem with always choosing the easy option?
5 Is it always a good idea to consider the advantages and disadvantages? Why/Why not?
6 How does sleep help you to make a decision?

C Work in groups. Which ideas in the text do you agree with? Which ones seem like bad ideas? Why?

The art of making decisions

Our lives are full of decisions. There are small, day-to-day decisions like what clothes to wear or what to have for dinner, and bigger life-changing decisions that will affect our future, like where you choose to live, or what career you decide to have. If you find it hard to make up your mind, there are a few things that can help.

Focus on the big issues

Some scientists studying the brain have seen that all decisions – big or small – use the same amount of energy. We get tired when we make decisions all day and this makes it difficult to focus on the important choices we need to make, at home or at work. When you take away the smaller decisions, you allow your brain to focus on the bigger problems.

When Barack Obama was U.S. president, he chose to remove one decision from his daily life: what to wear. He always wore a blue or a grey suit with a white shirt. This 'uniform' allowed him to focus his energy on the more important decisions he needed to make. When you have a really important decision to make, don't waste energy on smaller decisions that aren't going to make a difference to your life.

Don't fear the consequences

When trying to reach a decision, we often select the easiest option, rather than the one which might be difficult or involve more effort. When you make an important choice, think of the option that will help you to develop as a person, rather than choosing the easy option and missing an opportunity.

Follow your gut instincts

For some decisions, you might consider all the advantages and disadvantages, but at other times a quick decision is best. Our brain makes quick judgements about people and situations all the time. We decide on a person's character within the first 100 milliseconds of seeing their face for the first time. After that, we don't usually change our mind. It's the same for other decisions, too. Sometimes it is more difficult to make a decision if you think too much, and following your gut instinct is the better choice.

Sleep on it

Sometimes it makes sense to stop thinking about the decision and wait for a while. In fact, if you're making a complex decision that requires you to consider different factors, research shows that allowing the brain to work on the problem while you're asleep often helps you decide on the best course of action.

1 What things do you ask friends for advice about?
2 What do people ask you for advice about?

B Look at the situations your friends need advice about. Work in pairs and think of two pieces of advice for each one.

- I'm going on a sports holiday and I need to get fit quickly.
- I'm moving to a new city in a few months. How can I make new friends?
- I'm fed up with my job. I hate working in an office. I need to change careers.

C Read the email. What's the problem and what's the advice?

Hi Sara,

Great to hear from you! I'm so pleased you're doing well.

You asked about changing careers. Well, I've got a few ideas. Firstly, you need to work out what it is you really want to do. What is it about your current job that you want to change? Are there any other jobs you'd rather do? Try to think about things you really enjoy doing, then see if there's a job related to that. I know you like being outside in nature. Maybe you can look for a job which involves that.

Next, do your research. It's easy to find out about different jobs by searching online, but why not try talking to people doing the job you're interested in? Then you'll find out what it's really like. How about doing some work experience? Or some voluntary work? This will help you to make the right decision.

Lastly, make sure you think carefully before making a big change. You have to be sure about your decision. Once you leave your job, there's no going back. Don't be afraid of change though. Take the first small step towards your new career, and then just keep going. I know you can do it!

I hope this is useful. If you want to talk about it, just get in touch. And good luck!

All the best,

Marilyn

2 A Read the paragraph about another famous first. Why do some people believe Santos Dumont was 'the first'?

First to fly

Who made the first flight? [a] Books about the history of flight often say it was the Wright brothers, but some people believe it was [b] an inventor called Alberto Santos Dumont. So, did the first flight happen in [c] a field in North Carolina, USA, or in [d] France, where the Brazilian Santos Dumont lived? On December 17, 1903, Orville and Wilbur Wright succeeded in getting their plane into the air for twelve seconds. Three years later, on October 23, 1906, Santos Dumont also flew. [e] The Brazilian's flight was watched by hundreds of people as well as experts from the Aéro-Club de France, an organisation dedicated to flying machines. This was very different to the Wright brothers' flight, which hardly anyone saw. For this reason, many people in Europe didn't believe that the Wright brothers had really flown. The puzzle of who made the first flight remains one of [f] the biggest questions in aeroplane history, and we may never know the answer.

  c included messages about their new invention when they first showed it to the world.

B Work with other students. Discuss the question. How have the inventions in the text changed the way we communicate, spend our free time and learn things?

Famous Tech Firsts

1839

Frenchman Louis Daguerre invented the camera. But Robert Cornelius made changes to the invention and in 1839 tried an experiment using his own image. To take the picture, he sat still for fifteen minutes. The result was the very first selfie.

1958

William Higinbotham and Robert Dvorak created the world's first video game in 1958. It was a version of tennis. They developed the game to show to visitors at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, where they worked. Many years later, a similar game, called Pong, became famous. Now if you want a video game, you don't need to go to any lab – you just download an app.

1973

The first mobile phone call took place in 1973. Martin Cooper, an employee of the mobile phone company Motorola®, made it. And who did he call? His loved ones? His manager? No. He made a call to a competitor and explained that he'd won the race to invent the mobile phone. The invention weighed more than 1 kg and took ten hours to charge.

1991

The first webpage went live on 6 August, 1991. Tim Berners-Lee's invention showed how to create webpages! People read it to find information that, eventually, changed the world.

1992

The first text message appeared on 3 December, 1992. Neil Papworth, working on SMS for Vodaphone, sent the message 'Merry Christmas'. The new development grew quickly: now about 5 billion people (65 percent of the world's population) send and receive texts.

2005

The first YouTube video appeared on 23 April, 2005. It was called 'meet me at the zoo' and it consisted of eighteen seconds of a boy talking about elephants! It didn't exactly go viral, but it did launch a website that has been incredibly popular ever since.

2006

The first tweet appeared at 12.50 p.m. PST on 21 March, 2006, sent by the co-founder of Twitter, Jack Dorsey. It read 'just setting up my twttr'. At the time, Twitter was still called Twttr. Since then, 1.3 billion people have created accounts on Twitter, and there have even been tweets sent by astronauts from space.

2010

The first Instagram post was a photo of a dog next to a woman's foot. The photo was taken by the co-founder of Instagram, Kevin Systrom. The date was July 16, 2010, the place was a taco stand in Todos Santos, Mexico, and the foot belonged to Systrom's girlfriend. From these simple beginnings, Instagram became the place to share videos and photos.

sports and games

1 A Read the text. What does the writer want people to write comments about?

Is it a sport?

Can we call board games like chess a sport? If you are really good at computer games and take part in e-sports competitions, are you a sportsperson? Some people would call these activities games rather than sports, but not everyone agrees, and some organisations recognise them as sports. So, what makes a sport? First, it's an activity that requires physical skill and fitness. Secondly, it has a set of rules. And lastly, you can play it competitively, so there's a result, along with a winner and loser. Chess and e-sports certainly have rules and are competitive, and people who participate in high-level competitions would say that both activities require a lot of mental strength and, in the case of e-sports, physical skills, too. What do you think? And what about other activities such as bowling, dance and fishing? Are they sports, or just hobbies? Let us know in the comments.

B Work in pairs. Do you think the activities in the box are sports, games or hobbies? Why?

2 What video games do you play?
3 Are you a fan of any teams or players?
4 Does your favourite team usually win or lose?
5 Have you ever watched a rugby match?
6 Do you have any board games at home?

a No, I don't support anyone, but I watch football on TV occasionally.
b No, I don't understand the rules of that sport, or how you score points!

B Read the programme information and check your ideas.

Top Gear

Top Gear is the BBC's international award-winning television series about cars. On the show, the three presenters compare and test-drive cars, and organise all kinds of crazy races. In some episodes, they travel to different parts of the world, choose a car each, and race to see who can reach a place first. In this episode, the presenters are in Kathmandu, the capital of Nepal. They are racing to get to a city called Lo Manthang, but it's a difficult drive with lots of traffic, mountains and rivers to cross!

2 A Watch the BBC video clip. Number the events in the correct order.

The presenters …

a leave the blue Renault 4 car by the side of the road.
b drive out of Kathmandu.
c arrive at 'the Forbidden City' of Lo Manthang.
d camp for the night.
e receive their instructions on a piece of paper. 1
f drive along the side of a mountain.
g drive across a river.

B Are the statements True (T) or False (F)? Watch again and check.

1 The presenters find it easy to drive out of Kathmandu.
2 Outside Kathmandu the roads are bumpy.
3 One presenter asks for help because his car gets stuck in the water.
4 One presenter says that driving on the mountain is frightening.
5 They leave the blue car on the side of the road after ten days.
6 The red car is 'the winner'.

C Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

Writing competition

Tell us about a difficult journey. Where were you going? Who with? What happened and why was it difficult? What happened in the end? We accept stories about all kinds of journeys: road trips, train trips, car journeys, hikes, flights, etc. The winner wins an all-expenses trip to a Caribbean island! Write 100-140 words and include as many interesting details as you can.

B Read an entry to the competition. What are Jamal's answers to the questions in the competition description?

Car trouble in the Big Easy

The most difficult car ride I've ever had was in my friend Ricky's 1959 Buick Roadmaster in New Orleans. Ricky and I were trying to find a jazz club. Neither of us knew the city, and these were the days before Google Maps. The only thing we knew was the name of the club, Fritzel's. We got lost several times. At one point, we turned a corner and there was a street party in front of us. We turned around again.

Two hours later, the car made a strange noise and stopped. We'd run out of gas. Ricky just laughed. We left the car by the side of the road and started walking. We never found that jazz club, but we did find a great restaurant which sold the best seafood sandwiches ever.

READING

1 Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

1 What was the last news story you discussed with someone? Where did you read or hear it?
2 How important is it to understand what is happening in your country, or the world?
3 How do you decide if something you see online is real or fake?

1 Do you think they are real or fake? Why?
2 Imagine the photos are in a newspaper or magazine. What might the news stories be?

B Read the article. Answer the questions.

1 What jobs do the two people in the article do?
2 How are their jobs connected?

C Read the article again. Are the statements True (T) or False (F)?

1 Christopher Blair works for a traditional newspaper.
2 Blair always writes news stories about similar topics.
3 Maarten Schenk needs to work quickly to discover the real facts about a story.
4 Schenk is often unable to stop a fake news story from spreading.
5 Christopher Blair and Maarten Schenk are working against one another.
6 People who write fake news are not motivated by money.
7 Fact checkers are used by social media companies to reduce the amount of fake news.

D Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

1 How do you think Christopher Blair and Maarten Schenk feel about their work?
2 In what ways can fake news be dangerous?
3 How do you think social media sites should deal with fake news?
4 Who should pay to find and change fake news?
5 Would you prefer to be a fake news writer or a fact checker? Why?

Real or fake?

The news that travels fast

Christopher Blair, who lives on the U.S. East Coast, is one of the world's most creative news writers. He isn't a journalist who writes articles for a newspaper. He writes news stories which are not true. He invents them and publishes them online. He writes about anything: politics, a famous athlete or someone who has been in the news recently. First, he writes a headline which will get attention. Then, he adds a few details and before long, he has written a blog post, which is about 200 words long. He posts his story online, sits back and watches the 'likes' and 'shares' begin. Sometimes he gets thousands of views in just minutes.

Maarten Schenk, who lives in a small town near Brussels, Belgium, works from home. He sits at his desk in front of three computer screens. On one of the screens, he suddenly notices a lot of activity. The USA is waking up, and there's a news story which is being shared by lots of people on Facebook and other social networks. Schenk is a man who likes to find out the truth. He does some fact-checking, goes to his website, and starts to type. His job is to tell the world that what he's seeing online – the story that's currently going viral about a U.S. politician – is completely invented. It's fake news.

Blair and Schenk are in a game of cat and mouse, and the mouse usually wins. Why? Because he's one step ahead. Fact checkers work day and night, but by the time they find the fake news, it's often too late. The story has already gone halfway around the world.

Why do Blair and other fake news writers do it? What motivates them? In some cases, their websites began as a joke. Then they realised they were writing content that people wanted to read. Sometimes the motivation is financial, other times political. Or maybe it's just the joy of creativity. Instead of publishing short stories and novels, which take years, they can put their work in front of the world in minutes.

What about Schenk and the fact checkers? Nowadays, they're often employed by social media sites, and their job is to find and spread the truth. It's an old-fashioned type of work: investigating, making phone calls, searching the internet. What motivates them is discovering the lie, and maybe the fact that their job is never finished. For every Maarten Schenk, there are dozens of Christopher Blairs producing stories like rabbits out of a hat.

VOCABULARY

news and social media

3 A Look at the words in bold in the article. Match them with the meanings (1–8).

4 uploads a story on the internet
5 the title of a story in the news, usually printed in large letters
6 news that is invented and not true
7 the main information in the news story
8 an article on someone's personal webpage

B Complete the sentences using the correct form of words and phrases from Ex 3A.

1 I sometimes _____ my own ideas online on social media.
2 When I look at newspapers I never read a full article – I only read the _____ .
3 I think it's difficult to _____ if a story is fake news.
4 I think it's important for _____ who write for newspapers to check the facts.
5 I try to write a _____ twice a week, sharing my thoughts and feelings.
6 I think it's pretty easy to spot _____ . This kind of story never contains facts and the writers are not well respected.

C Change the sentences in Ex 3B so they are true for you. Then compare your ideas with a partner.

I often read the headlines first, but then I choose two or three news stories to read in full.

D Work with other students. Read the Future Skills box and discuss the questions.

FUTURE SKILLS
Critical thinking

When you read news stories, it is important to think about whether they are true or fake. Before you share a news story, you should:

- look at the source and author of the article to see if you can trust them.
- read the whole article, not only the headline.
- check if the same news story is in other news sites that you trust
- check some of the facts in the article, e.g. the names of experts.

Do you use any of these strategies when you access the news? Which ones? What else do you do?

WHALE LANDS IN FARMER'S FIELD A 30,000 kg whale has landed in a farmer's field in Arkadelphia, 482 km off the coast of Louisiana. The whale, which was picked up by the powerful winds of Hurricane Delta, was 15 m long. Jerry O'Bourke, 97, had the surprise of his life when he discovered the whale outside the back of his house. O'Bourke, who has been a farmer all his life, says he has never seen such an incredible thing. Other animals that have been picked up by hurricanes include cats, frogs, dogs and cows.

WORLD NEWS DAILY REPORT B

SPIDER BITE! Three brothers from La Paz, Bolivia, were taken to hospital after being bitten by a black widow spider. The boys, who were aged eight, ten and twelve, let the spider bite them because they wanted to develop superpowers, like their favourite superhero. Soon afterwards they felt ill and had to be taken to hospital. Luckily the boys survived, and went home after spending a week in hospital.

LOCAL NEWS C

YOUR PIZZA DELIVERY! A man who lives in Belgium keeps receiving pizzas which he never orders. Every day for nearly ten years, deliveries of pizzas and other fast food arrive at his house, but he never orders them. Jean Van Landeghem says he waits in his house every day until he hears the delivery scooter on the street. One day, ten delivery drivers arrived in a single day, and one of them tried to deliver fourteen pizzas. The 65-year-old has reported the problem to the police.

2 What is your goal? Who will help you achieve it?
3 How can you get your campaign into the news?

C Present your campaign to the class. As you listen, make notes on the other presentations.

D In your groups, discuss the other campaigns. Which idea do you think is the best? Why?

WRITING

an online comment

7A Read part of an article on a local newspaper's website. Then read the comment from a reader. What problem is the article about? What do you think of the reader's suggestions?

Our town is popular with tourists because of its beautiful weather and perfect beaches. People from all over Europe spend their summers here. The problem is that Bawlyn Beach has become polluted. In July and August, there are a lot of parties, and there aren't enough rubbish bins on the beach. Unfortunately, people leave a lot of plastic, cans and other rubbish. This issue is becoming more serious every year. What can we do?

Comments

One idea is to organise groups of young people to do clean-up projects. We could organise a group of around fifteen young people to clean the beach on the first and third Saturdays of every month, May to September. Another suggestion is to ask the local government for more rubbish bins on the beach, so people won't drop as much rubbish there. It would also be good to start a recycling project, for example collecting plastic from the beach and sending it to a place where it can be used again.

Nellie Abberly, Vice Principal, Castle School

B Look at the words and phrases in bold in the article and comment. Which introduce a problem? Which introduce a solution?

C Work in pairs. Read about another problem. What solutions can you suggest? Discuss the ideas in the box and your own ideas.

a café for young people a new sports facility
a skatepark a music studio

The issue is that our town has very little for young people to do. Unfortunately, we have only one small park, where people walk their dogs, and the playgrounds are in bad condition for younger children. Many towns of a similar size have skateparks, football pitches, sports centres and other places where teenagers can relax safely in public. In our town, there's nowhere for students to go after school. What can we do?

D Write a comment offering a solution to the problem in Ex 7C. Use phrases for introducing solutions.

1 A Work in pairs. Answer the questions.

1 Are you having a good week? Why/ Why not?
2 Has anything exciting happened to you in the last week/month?

B Read the texts. What good things and bad things have happened to the people?

The best week ever! I can't believe it. I've just moved into a really nice house, and I passed my driving test. Work's going really well. I got promoted, so I'm now earning more money. My sister has had a baby, so now I'm an aunt, I've had a new haircut and everyone says it really suits me. I also posted a video online of me singing with my band and it got over 2,000 likes!

I'm having a terrible week! I failed my accountancy exams for the third time – I'm now worried I might lose my job. I broke my phone. I had an argument with a friend and now he isn't speaking to me. I bought a new pair of shoes and then realised they don't fit very well. And I've got my driving test tomorrow – I'll probably fail!

A Pablo Picasso
the 3 a.m. genius

Picasso's mother said that her son's first word was 'piz', a short form of 'lapiz', the Spanish word for a pencil. The boy's father was an artist, and the house was full of pencils, paint and paper. From the age of five, Picasso drew everything he saw. He used to draw at school, at home, in restaurants, even in bed. He painted his first painting when he was seven and kept it for the rest of his life. He produced nearly 50,000 works.

In 1904, Picasso moved from Spain to Paris. He was twenty-three years old and so poor that he had to burn some of his paintings to keep warm. He used to pay his bills by giving people drawings instead of money. It was in Paris that Picasso became a great artist. His fortunes changed and he became successful. When he was famous, he once refused to sign a drawing in a restaurant, saying he was buying a meal not the whole restaurant.

As his fame grew, he continued to produce more and more art. He used to arrive at his studio in the afternoon and often worked until 3 a.m. He painted in many different styles and used everything around him in his art. His studio was full of old furniture, newspapers, bus tickets, bottles, plates, boxes and guitars. He left these objects on chairs, tables and the floor until eventually they appeared in his works.

Picasso lived a long life. He worked for over seventy years, and was still painting in his nineties. By the time he died, aged ninety-one, many people believed he was the greatest artist in history.

B Pablo Casals
Ninety years of music

Pablo Casals was one of Spain's greatest musicians. His father was a music teacher and as a baby, Casals used to listen to his father playing the piano. By the age of six, Casals played the piano and the violin. One day, he saw someone performing on a cello. He immediately fell in love with the instrument, stopped playing the violin and the piano, and became a cello player.

For Casals, the cello was more than a hobby. From the age of thirteen, he used to start the day with a walk in nature. After this, he used to practise playing the same notes again and again, all before breakfast! One day, he was in a second-hand music store with his father when they found a sheet of cello music by Bach. They bought it and this changed Casals' life. He fell in love with Bach's music and later became famous for his performances of this composer's music.

When he was still a young man, Casals went to live in Paris. There, his fame as a musician and composer grew. He then travelled all over the world playing the cello. At the age of twenty-three, he even played for Queen Victoria in London. Sixty-two years later, when he was eighty-five, he played for President Kennedy in the White House.

Casals never stopped practising the cello, even as an old man. When he was in his nineties, an interviewer asked him why he still practised every day. Casals replied that it was because he thought he was getting better! By the time he died, aged ninety-six, Casals was loved all over the world and had influenced a generation of musicians.

The paperclip challenge

Try this test to see how creative you are. Look at the paperclip. What do you think it could be used for? Write down as many ideas as possible. You have one minute.

B Look on page 147. Were any of the ideas the same as yours? Which group had the most creative ideas?

C Work in pairs. Answer the questions.

1 Do you think the activity in Ex 1A is a good way to measure how creative someone is? Why/Why not?
2 In what ways do you think you are creative?
3 How important is it to be creative in everyday life? Why?

2 A Read the text. Do you agree with what it says about creativity?

What is creativity?

When we think about creativity, we often think of the world's most talented artists – people like Frida Kahlo, Einstein or Mozart. But you don't have to have more talent than everyone else to create something new and exciting. All you need is a little imagination and a bit of free time. You might not be very artistic, or even interested in art, so your painting skills may not be brilliant, but maybe you're a skilful and imaginative cook and enjoy creating new and original recipes. Or you could be someone who has brilliant ideas for solving problems at work. Maybe you show your creativity in the clothes you wear, or perhaps you are keen on photography – maybe you use your photographic abilities to take pictures of your friends, then use your digital skills to change them and make interesting images. All of these are creative activities. And they are very important. When we look at the way that computers and technology are capable of doing many of the everyday jobs we used to do, it is easy to imagine that creativity is perhaps the most important skill for the future.

B Complete the table with the bold words in the text in Ex 2A.

The best restaurant I've ever been to Nannarella, in Rome, is probably the best restaurant I've ever been to. It's located near a busy square in Trastevere. In the evening, you can sit outside and listen to talented musicians playing while you eat.

The chef has created an imaginative menu, which is based on traditional Italian food, but with new, original ideas. We had a rosemary focaccia to start, followed by two different types of pasta. The carbonara and the lasagne were delicious, although it was a shame that we had to eat quite quickly because we were in a hurry. We finished with the tiramisu, which was the tastiest dessert I've ever eaten.

While it is busier than other restaurants, and there are a lot of tourists, the atmosphere was very friendly and relaxed. The staff made sure that we had everything we needed. If you come at lunchtime, make sure you book a table, unless you don't mind waiting. Also, it wasn't as expensive as similar restaurants in the area. I would recommend Nannarella to anybody visiting Rome because of both the food and the service. You'll remember the experience.

Public art – love it or hate it?

From the art we see painted on the walls of our cities to the huge sculptures we might find outside a museum, public art is everywhere. In the past, public art often meant statues of historical figures. These days, all kinds of fantastic art has moved outside art galleries, where it has more space and a bigger audience. Public art is for everyone. It's free and you don't need to buy a ticket. It can also help to create a city's identity. For example, Louise Bourgeois's Maman, a sculpture of a giant spider, outside the Guggenheim Museum, has become a symbol of Bilbao, Spain. Anthony Gormley's outstanding sculpture The Angel of the North is similarly popular with visitors to the north of England. However, not everybody likes public art. Some say it's a waste of money. Others think it's ugly. One example is graffiti. Some say it's art and others say it's vandalism. What do you think?

3 A Read the two statements (a and b). Then choose the correct words to complete the rules (1 and 2).

a We can say 'very bad'. We can't say '~~very terrible~~'.
b We can say 'absolutely fantastic'. We can't say '~~absolutely good~~'.

WRITING

a nomination for an award

5A Read about the MacArthur prize. Do you think prizes like this are a good idea? Why?

The MacArthur Fellowship offers creative individuals prize money to help them continue their creative work. The award can go to scientists, engineers, musicians, artists, journalists, etc. It can be anyone who is pushing the boundaries of creativity within their field in order to discover new things or new ways of doing things for the benefit of society.

B Your college or workplace is organising its own creative genius award. Read the nomination below. Do you think this person should win the award? Why/Why not?

To: admin@creativegenius.com
Subject: Creative genius award

I would like to propose my friend Marco Santini for the creative genius award because Marco is the most creative pasta chef I know. He can cook all different types of pasta dishes using whatever ingredients he has in the kitchen. Even when you think there is nothing left to eat, Marco can always surprise you with a delicious meal from nowhere. He has always made his own pasta since his grandmother taught him when he was a child. But nowadays, he's always inventing his own new recipes. He makes pasta of all different colours and shapes and when he shows you the dish, it looks like a work of art. It's always delicious, too! I think Marco deserves the award as he is definitely the most creative person I know.

READING

1 Work in pairs. Ask and answer the questions.

1 How often do you go away on holiday?
2 What type of holidays do you like? Why?
3 Where is your next holiday going to be?

2A Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 Do you think tourism is generally a good or a bad thing? Why?
2 Why do you think some people might not like tourists in their area?

B You are going to read an article about how to be a better tourist. Look at the headings (A–F), which have been removed from the article. What suggestions do you think the article will make for how 'responsible tourists' should behave?

A See more than just the key sights
B Try somewhere different
C Say something!
D Be respectful
E Keep it clean
F Time your trip carefully

C Read the article. Put the headings from Ex 2B in the correct places (1–6). Were your predictions from Ex 2B correct?

3A Work in pairs. Answer the questions.

According to the article, …

1 what is the problem at Machu Picchu?
2 in what way is the festival in Annecy different to the one in Venice?
3 how can you avoid going to places that are very crowded?
4 why is it important to find out about the local culture and customs? How can you do this?
5 why should you try to learn a few words of the local language?
6 what should tourists take from tourist destinations, and what should they leave behind?

B Work in groups. Discuss the questions.

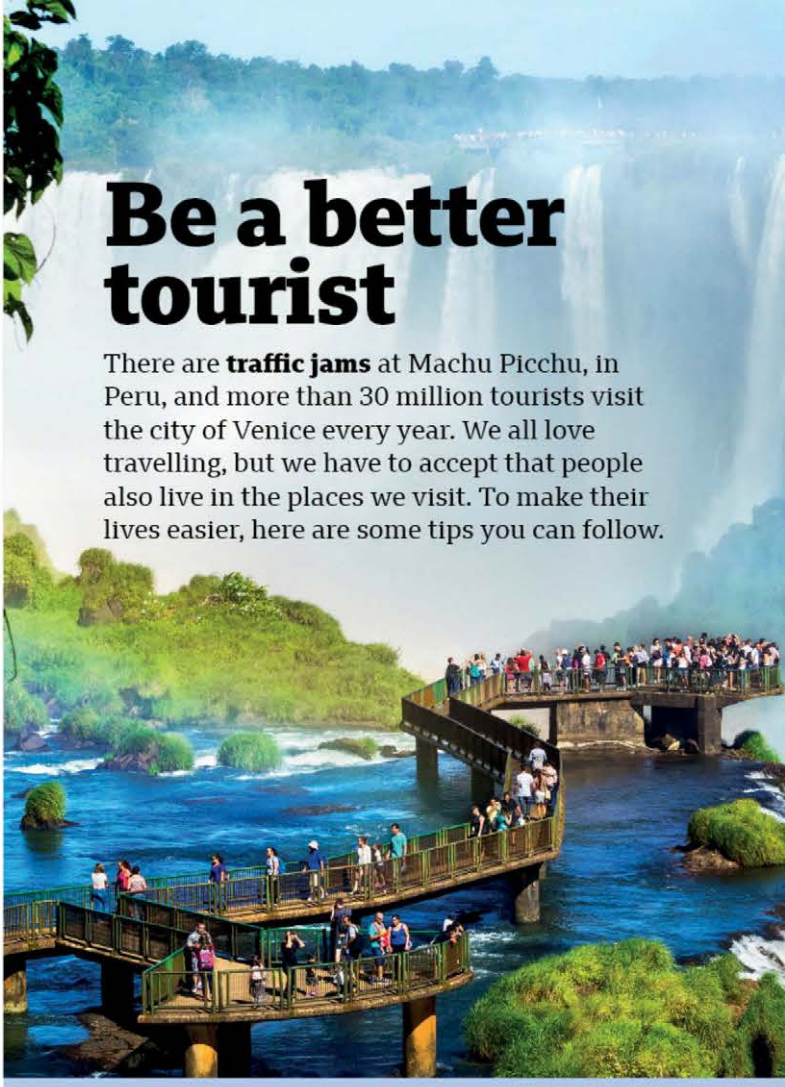
1 Do you agree with the ideas in the article?
2 Do you follow any of these recommendations?
3 Can you think of any other ideas to add?



Be a better tourist

There are traffic jams at Machu Picchu, in Peru, and more than 30 million tourists visit the city of Venice every year. We all love travelling, but we have to accept that people also live in the places we visit. To make their lives easier, here are some tips you can follow.

1 .....
Why go to the same place as everyone else? Instead of going to the most popular festivals, you could try alternative destinations. For example, instead of going to Venice to see its famous carnival, you could try Annecy, in France, where they recreate the magic of the Venetian carnival, but without the crowds. If people tried going somewhere different, the main tourist destinations wouldn't be so busy.

2 .....
If possible, travel out of season, so that popular places don't become too crowded. If you plan a trip to Prague, why not spend a week there rather than just two days? Use the time to really get to know the city. When you visit Amsterdam, you can use a special app that sends notifications to your phone if part of the city is busier than usual. This way you can help avoid making long queues at museums.

3 .....
If you go to Paris, you'll probably want to go sightseeing. Visit the Eiffel Tower and the Louvre, but don't just stop at the main tourist attractions. Travel to the edges of the city and see what you can discover there. You will have special memories of a city if you discover some local places for yourself.

4 .....
Try to find out about the local culture of the place you're visiting. If you travel to somewhere new, you'll understand the culture better if you read a book about its history, or read a novel by a local author. Customs differ around the world and it's important to understand and respect local customs and traditions. Tourist organisations in some countries like Iceland and Japan offer advice to tourists on how to behave and what not to do. You need to watch your body language. Is it polite to shake hands when you meet someone for the first time, or should you bow your head? If you get these customs wrong, you can easily offend people.

5 .....
Try to learn a few of the most common words or phrases. 'Hello,' 'excuse me,' 'thank you' and 'goodbye' are all essential. If you try to speak their language, people will appreciate your efforts.

6 .....
Don't leave a mess wherever you go. From the beaches of Goa to the streets of London, plastic waste is a huge problem for the environment. If everyone took their litter home with them, tourist destinations would be a lot cleaner and more attractive. When you visit somewhere beautiful , remember the saying, 'Take only memories, leave only footprints.'

VOCABULARY

GRAMMAR

first and second conditionals

5A Look at the sentences (a–d) from the article. Which sentences describe:

1 a possible situation in the future?
2 a situation that is hypothetical or not real?

a If you travel to somewhere new, you'll understand the culture better if you read a book about its history.
b If you try to speak their language, people will appreciate your efforts.
c If people tried going somewhere different, the main tourist destinations wouldn't be so busy.
d If everyone took their litter home with them, tourist destinations would be a lot cleaner and more attractive.

B Read the rules. Then decide if the sentences in Ex 5A are first conditional or second conditional.

1 We use the first conditional for real, possible situations in the future.
2 We use the second conditional to talk about a hypothetical situation in the future.

C Complete the rules with present simple or past simple.

1 We form the first conditional with If/When + _____ + will.
2 We form the second conditional with If/When + _____ + would.

D Learn and practise. Go to the Grammar Bank.

6A 7.01 | contractions | Listen and complete the sentences with the contracted form of will or would.

1 If you learn the language, you _____ be able to communicate with people.
2 If you leave rubbish everywhere, somebody _____ have to clear it up.
3 If the city charged a tourist tax, they _____ reduce the number of tourists.
4 If we stayed in a small hotel, we _____ help the local economy.
5 If the hotel gets a good review, it _____ encourage more tourists to visit.
6 If tourists had more respect for local customs, it _____ be better.

B How are will and would pronounced as contractions in speech?

C Complete the sentences so that they are true for you. Say the sentences out loud to your partner to compare your ideas. Remember to pronounce the contractions correctly.

- If I go on holiday next year, I'll …
- If I don't have much money next year, I'll …
- If I could go anywhere in the world, I'd …
- If I spoke more languages, I'd …
- Life would be easier if …

SPEAKING

7A Work in groups. What are the biggest problems with tourism in your town, city or country? Make a list.

I think there are too many/too few tourists.
All the tourists come in the same month.
Tourists only visit the capital city.

B In your groups, look at your list of problems in Ex 7A. Think of a solution for each one and make notes.

Tourists only visit the capital city. – Advertise other places of interest.

C Discuss the questions in your groups.

1 What will happen if each of your suggestions is accepted?
2 How would tourism in your area change if all the changes you suggested were made?

If we advertise other places of interest, more tourists will visit them, so there won't be as many tourists in the capital.
If we made all these changes, the capital city would be less crowded and other places around the country would earn more money from tourism.

8 Read the Future Skills box and discuss the questions.

FUTURE SKILLS
Social responsibility

Good tourists are socially responsible. They respect local customs and try to make sure that their visit does not have a negative impact on the area.

What would you teach a tourist if they wanted to travel around your country? Think about the ideas below or your own ideas.

food interesting places to visit local customs meeting people new ways of doing things problems the landscape the weather what she expected before the trip

Hi Geoff,

I've just got back from my trip to Santiago de Compostela. Three of us cycled in the north of Spain for two weeks and it was amazing. We met lots of people from many different countries and everyone was really friendly.

We enjoyed exploring. We were excited to come across beautiful little towns that we'd never heard of. Many of them had wonderful restaurants and squares, and some had castles and tiny museums. We learnt about the different cultures and customs of that part of Spain. I found the history very interesting.

I'd expected the cycling to be really difficult, but it wasn't too bad. There were hardly any days when I felt too tired to keep going, and the landscape was never boring. We went over hills, through valleys and next to streams and rivers. When we weren't cycling, we tried plenty of the local dishes, which were delicious! Anyway, I'll tell you more when I see you.

Best wishes,

Zeinab

Top things to do in Shanghai

Shanghai is China's largest and richest city. It's worth a visit to experience this vibrant, exciting and modern city. Here are the top three things you should do in Shanghai.

1 Travel to the top of the famous Shanghai Tower, based in Shanghai's financial district. From the top of this huge tower you can see fantastic views of the city. This is a great place to enjoy a meal in one of many restaurants.

2 Walk along the Bund and appreciate the many different historical buildings. Enjoy the view of Shanghai's famous skyline as you look out across the 500m wide Huangpu River, which splits the city in two. The Bund is also one of the best places to go shopping!

3 Enjoy the green space and peaceful surroundings at Yu Garden, in the old Chinese neighbourhood. Relax as you walk through these beautiful, ancient gardens (built in 1577), cross the narrow, wooden bridges and enjoy looking at the traditional, colourful buildings. Next door to the Yu Garden is a market where you can drink tea, try some delicious local snacks and buy some souvenirs for your friends.

B Read the Future Skills box and discuss the question.

Communication

Communication is about more than what you say. You can communicate feelings such as enthusiasm through your intonation, facial expression and gestures.

What kind of intonation, facial expression and gestures do you think you can use to show that you are enthusiastic?

C Complete the sentences below with places in your town, city or country. Then tell a partner. Add emphasis to sound enthusiastic.

1 You absolutely have to see ...
2 You must visit ...
3 You should definitely visit ...

SPEAKING

6A Work alone. Think about a place that you know well and answer the questions. Use vocabulary from Ex 2B and phrases from Ex 4A.

1 Where is the place?
2 How would you describe it?
3 What would you recommend that people visit there? Why?
4 What activities would you recommend? Why?

B Work in pairs. Take turns to tell your partner about your place and make recommendations. Respond to your partner's recommendations.

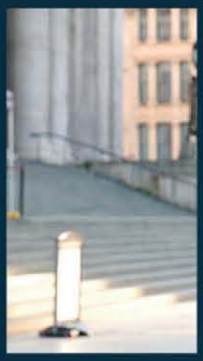
SPEAKING | a discussion about travel
WRITING | an essay about why we travel



PREVIEW

1 Work in groups and discuss the questions.

1 Do you like travelling?
2 Have you travelled a lot?
3 Where would you like to go next?

Q1: What's the most amazing place you've ever visited?

Q2: Do you prefer travelling by yourself or with other people?

VIEW

2A ▶ Watch the first part of the video. Number the places in the order the speakers mention them.

Iceland	Budapest	Mount Kilimanjaro
London	India 1	Syria
New Zealand

B In the second part of the video, eight speakers are asked whether they prefer travelling by themselves or with other people. How do you think they will answer this question?

C ▶ Watch the video and check your ideas.

3A Read the reasons people give for liking a place. What do the words in bold mean?

1 It's such a fantastic, big, diverse country.
2 The scenery was amazing.
3 There's such a wide variety of food to try.
4 It just feels so lively.

B ▶ Look at the sentences in Ex 3A again. What places are the speakers talking about? Watch the first part of the video again to check.

C ▶ Choose the correct words to complete what the speakers say. Watch the second part of the video again and check.

1 Molly: I prefer my own family / company.
2 Dan: It can get a bit lively / lonely on your own.
3 Nikki: Just go on your own / alone, I'd say.
4 Osaid: … the experience is shared / better with my friends or family.
5 Anabel: You can share the memory with them, rather than just alone / yourself.

D Work in groups. Have you been to any of the places mentioned in Ex 2A? Which would you like to visit? Why?

B Work in groups. Discuss the questions in Ex 5A.

WRITING

an essay about why we travel

6A Read the essay. What reasons does the author give for travelling?

Why travel?

Travel writers, tour guides and flight crews make their living from travel. For the rest of us, if we're lucky, travel enriches our lives.

The main reason to travel is that it can open our minds. We see new sights, meet new people and learn new languages (or at least a few words). Things we always thought were 'normal' aren't necessarily normal in other cultures. This applies to customs, architecture, food, even driving. It means that when we get home, we see things with 'fresh eyes'.

Sometimes, people get stuck in a routine, doing the same things every day. When we travel, that routine often changes and sometimes we change, too. We escape from everyday life and we learn about ourselves.

For many people, travelling provides the most exciting experiences life can offer. If we keep our eyes and ears open, it can change our lives.

B Choose one of the questions you discussed in Ex 5A. Write an essay discussing the question you chose.

- Think of a title for your essay.
- Plan what each paragraph will contain before you write.
- Include your own opinions and reasons.
- End with a clear conclusion.

Living the dream

Grégoire Kengen is a film-maker and photographer from Belgium. Grégoire travels around in his van (named Henri!), films his experiences and uploads the videos to YouTube. His YouTube channel, gregsway, has over 200,000 subscribers.

One reason why Grégoire is popular is that he's very practical and creative. For example, he turned his van into a mobile studio, added new parts and installed electricity. His van was made in 1990, and he sometimes has to repair things that go wrong or replace old parts. He always finds a way!

In 2017, Grégoire started a new project. He and a friend built a tiny house mainly from wood. With the help of an architect, he designed it and calculated what size it should be and what materials he needed. He then built it next to a forest. As the house is far from civilisation, they had to solve a few problems such as how to get water and electricity to it. They arranged access to running water, put up shelves and added a power supply. Now they rent the house to guests.

Grégoire started fixing things as a hobby, but he was able to turn his hobby into a job and a way of life. For this reason, some say he's really living the dream! What do you think?

WRITING

an anecdote about learning a skill

7A You are going to write about a hobby or skill that you learnt. First, read Marta's text. What skill did she learn?

I could swim almost before I could walk. My parents were keen surfers and we lived next to the beach. We spent all day every day in the water. I was able to surf when I was five and I got my first surfboard at the age of six.

My friends and I surfed a lot, but none of us had any money, which meant we couldn't replace our old boards with new ones. So when I was twelve, I learnt how to repair surfboards. At first, my mother helped me. She showed me what to do and what tools to use. After a few months, I could do it alone. I worked on all my friends' old boards.

These days, I don't surf very often, although I go to the beach at weekends. I can still repair old surfboards and sometimes the young surfers bring their broken boards to me because I'm the only one who's able to fix them!

C Complete the article by matching the missing sentences (A–G) with the gaps (1–6). There is one extra sentence that you do not need.

A Video also helps news travel fast.

B In this new media age, the screen has become our number one way of communicating.

C Video appeals to the emotions and helps us to feel present in a moment, as if we were there.

D Lots of people also watch videos for enjoyment.

E It is now easier than ever to make your own videos.

F As well as helping us learn facts or skills, it seems videos can also help us want to learn.

G Visual information is processed 60,000 times faster in the brain than other information.

4A Match the words in bold in the article with the meanings below.

1 to take in new facts or details

2 to concentrate on one thing without getting distracted

3 the person who films themselves for a video channel

4 someone who watches a video

5 attractive or interesting to people

6 to be in touch with other people and communicate with them

7 to make someone else change the way they think about something

B Work in pairs. Choose two of the types of video from the article and discuss your experience of using them.

Watch, like, share

1 B Video is everywhere. We watch, like, share and make videos more than ever before. Every minute, hundreds of hours of video are uploaded to YouTube. And every year, more and more videos are shared online. Video has changed how we entertain ourselves, how we communicate, how we share information and how we learn.

Learning

2 ..... This means that we absorb information more quickly from videos than from reading texts. Videos are naturally appealing, because our brains are programmed to notice movement, so we pay attention more easily. And it seems we remember information we watch in videos for longer, too. For all these reasons, video is being used more and more in formal education, but it's also a great way to learn new skills. People watch instructional 'how to …' videos to do all kinds of things: improve their cooking skills, learn new languages, learn musical instruments or do their make-up. 'With me' videos are popular, too, where people film themselves doing everyday tasks like cleaning, cooking and shopping. 3 ..... 'Study with me' videos show people silently studying. It might seem surprising, but when students watch these videos, they feel more motivated to stay focused on their own studies.

Communication

4 ..... This is one reason why teenagers in particular often like using video as a way to communicate. Many love sharing and commenting on videos of themselves spending time with friends or sharing an exciting holiday experience. It helps them to feel connected. In 2019, 10 billion videos were watched every day on Snapchat.

5 ..... In the past, journalists were sent somewhere to report on a news event, and they often arrived after the event had happened. These days, anybody with a phone can film what's happening and share it on social media. But we have to be careful. Videos can be a powerful way to influence people, so we should check that we know where the video comes from. Sometimes we think we're just watching a funny animal video that's gone viral, when in fact it could be someone trying to sell us something.

Entertainment

6 ..... All the traditional forms of entertainment such as films, comedy shows, music, etc. are available online. But there are some newer trends, too, where people film themselves and others watch for fun. One of these trends is Mukbang videos. Mukbang (pronounced 'mook-bong') originated in South Korea, where it translates as 'eating broadcast'. The host is filmed eating a large meal while chatting to the viewer. The videos have been so popular that many Mukbang hosts have become famous.

Do you suffer from Computer Stress Syndrome?

It could be the one thing that stresses us out more than anything else in our work life – technical problems. Your phone isn't working and you can't download any apps. You finish writing an essay or a report and then realise you've just deleted the files by mistake, and lost everything. Your computer keeps crashing in the middle of a meeting or you can't open a file or attachment on your laptop. Perhaps you've forgotten your password, or you have a slow internet connection. On top of all this, you find the printer is broken. You call the technical department but after waiting for twenty minutes to speak to a real person, you get cut off. All these technical problems contribute to 'Computer Stress Syndrome', something many of us suffer from. When the technology works, it's great. When it fails, it's a nightmare.

2 A Work in pairs. Complete the sentences about some more technical problems with the correct form of the words in bold in Ex 1B.

1 The heating is _____. We need to fix it because the house is really cold!
2 My phone _____. I can't download any apps.
3 I sent the email, but I forgot to send the file as an _____.
4 My laptop sometimes _____ when I download large files. It just switches off.
5 I was using the internet, but then I suddenly lost the wifi _____.
6 You can't use your account until you log in and create a new _____.
7 We only managed to talk for a few minutes before we _____.
8 The lift was out of _____, so I had to use the stairs.

B Complete the collocations with words from Ex 1B.

PRONUNCIATION

4A 8.08 | contrastive stress | Listen to the extracts from two of the conversations. Which words are stressed in each one?

1 A: Is there a problem with your presentation?
B: No. My presentation's fine, but there's a problem with the internet connection.

2 A: Problem with your laptop?
B: No, it isn't my laptop, it's the printer.

B Why do the speakers stress these words? Choose the correct answer.

1 They are correcting a mistake which the other person made.
2 These words are the most difficult to pronounce.

C Work in pairs. Student A: Choose one sentence to read to Student B. Don't say which sentence. Make sure you stress the correct word! Student B: Guess which sentence. Repeat the activity, then change roles.

1 No, I put the laptop on the table yesterday. (not the desktop computer!)
2 No, I put the laptop on the table yesterday. (not on the floor!)
3 No, I put the laptop on the table yesterday. (not today!)

5A Work in pairs. Student A: Read the instructions below. Student B: Turn to page 147. Then roleplay the two situations.

Student A

1 You need to check some information urgently on your phone, but you don't have a wifi connection. You can see there are other networks available, but you don't know the passwords.
- Explain the problem to Student B.
- Respond to their recommendations.
- See if you can solve the problem together.

2 Listen to Student B's problem.
- Ask questions to find out more information.
- Make recommendations.
- Try to solve the problem together.

B Work in pairs. Choose more situations in which someone has a problem. You can use situations from Ex 2A or your own ideas. Have conversations in which one person describes the problem and the other makes recommendations. Try to solve the problems.

PREVIEW

1A Work with other students. Discuss the questions.

1 Do you think it is easy to learn another language? Why/Why not?
2 What do you find most difficult about learning languages?
3 Is it easier to learn when you are younger or older? Why?
4 Who is the most talented language learner you know? How many languages do they speak and how did they learn them?

B Read the programme information. Then look at the photo. What special talent do you think the girl might have?

Inside the Human Body

Inside the Human Body is a BBC science programme. In each episode, the presenter Michael Mosley looks at how a different part of the body works. In this episode, he explores the human brain and, in particular, our ability to learn languages.

I'm moving to France for work next year. Does anyone have any tips for learning a new language quickly?
Sandra 2 reviews GB A day ago

Personally, I enjoy studying with other people more than by myself, so I recommend going to a class and using a grammar book. You need to know the basics, which you can get from a book, but you also have to practise speaking the language.
Divya 16 reviews PK A day ago

Try listening to songs in French. That's a really fun way to learn. I remember listening to my favourite British bands years ago, which is how I learnt English!

I remember try to learn Latin at school. It was incredibly boring. We practised to reading texts aloud and changing verbs into different tenses. Everyone hated doing this. Even now, years later, I can't stand translate! We all knew that Latin was a dead language, but the teacher kept to tell us it was really important. He liked to explain that Latin was the root of many other languages, like French and Spanish. When I went to live in Italy, I began to understand what he meant. I could understand a lot of words in Italian because I understood Latin. Now I'd recommend to learn Latin at school!

1A present simple and present continuous; state verbs; adverbs of frequency

REFERENCE page 9

Present simple

We use the present simple to talk about something that is always or generally true, or for habits or routines (things that happen regularly).

Present continuous

We use the present continuous to talk about an activity happening right now, at the time of speaking.

We also use the present continuous to talk about a temporary activity happening around now.

He's studying philosophy at university.

We often use these words and phrases with the present continuous: now, at the moment, currently, this month.

He's living with his grandmother at the moment.

We also use the present continuous for future arrangements (see page 113).

We form the present continuous with the correct form of the verb be + the -ing form of the verb.

+	I'm watching a film at the moment.
-	He isn't talking to me.
?	Are you living with your parents at the moment?

State verbs

Some verbs are not usually used with continuous tenses. They describe thoughts, feelings, sense and perceptions. They are called 'state verbs'.

Common state verbs are: be, believe, belong, feel, forget, hate, hear, imagine, know, like, love, matter, mean, need, prefer, realise, remember, seem, suppose, understand.

Adverbs of frequency

Adverbs of frequency tell us how often something happens. We often use adverbs of frequency with the present simple.

The most common adverbs of frequency are: always, often, usually, sometimes, occasionally, rarely, never.

We also use expressions of frequency to talk about how often something happens, e.g. every day/year, twice a week, hardly ever, once in a while.

I hardly ever talk to him.

We usually put adverbs of frequency before the main verb, or after the verb be

I often study in the evenings.

I'm not usually late.

Adverbs of frequency can go at the beginning, in the middle or at the end of a sentence.

Occasionally, I see my aunt.

I occasionally see my aunt.

I see my aunt occasionally.

Always and never do not normally go at the beginning or end of sentences.

Expressions of frequency usually go at the beginning or the end of the sentence.

Once in a while he sends flowers.

We work together every day.

PRACTICE

1 Complete the sentences with the present simple or present continuous form of the verbs in brackets.

1 _____ you _____ with your parents at the moment? (live)
2 _____ your partner _____ how to cook? (know)
3 What song _____ you _____ to? I've never heard it before. (listen)
4 How often _____ you _____ your family? (see)
5 This month I _____ to finish this new project. (try)
6 When we go to Rome, we usually _____ with my sister. (stay)

2 Add the expressions of frequency on the line according to how often you think they happen.

every day every weekend from time to time hardly ever once a month once in a while twice a year

never ——— always

3 Complete the sentences. Choose the correct place (a or b) for the adverb or expression of frequency.

1 (a) _____ our manager deals (b) _____ with problems. It's her job. (usually)
2 I (a) _____ get up early (b) _____ and go for a run. (every day)
3 She's a close friend but (a) _____ we (b) _____ see each other – maybe only once a year. (rarely)
4 I (a) _____ clean the house at the weekend (b) _____ . I hate it when it's a mess. (always)
5 (a) _____ I (b) _____ speak to my manager – maybe once a month. (once in a while)
6 (a) _____ I (b) _____ work late at night because I get too tired and I can't concentrate. (never)
7 We go (a) _____ out for a meal together (b) _____ . (occasionally)
8 I (a) _____ wish I worked part-time because I'd love to spend (b) _____ more time with my family. (sometimes)

-ing forms

We can use the -ing form of a verb as the subject of a sentence.

Playing outside is good for children.

Reading in a foreign language can be difficult.

Preposition + -ing form

We often use -ing forms after a preposition.

After seeing the film, he cried.

Before going to bed, he had a shower.

Verb + to infinitive

Some verbs are followed by a to infinitive.

I hope to become a doctor.

He decided to buy a new car.

I'd like to go on holiday.

I promise to do my homework.

We expect to be home tomorrow.

Verb + -ing form

Some verbs are followed by an -ing form.

I love swimming.

1D modifiers

REFERENCE

We use modifiers to talk about how much, or how little, something is true.

quite, quite a/an ...

Quite has a meaning which is less strong than very.

That's quite interesting. (but not very interesting)

That's quite an expensive hobby.

That's quite a lot of money.

We use:

quite + adjective

It's quite difficult to find a job at the moment.

quite a/an + adjective + noun

That's quite a difficult language to learn.

She's quite an easy-going person.

We can use other modifiers (relatively, fairly, pretty, reasonably, etc.) with adjectives, instead of quite, with a similar meaning.

This area is relatively cheap to live in.

He is fairly happy with his lifestyle.

My life is pretty good at the moment.

a bit more/a lot more

We use a bit (more/less) for a small amount more or less.
We use a lot (more/less) for a large amount more or less.

I'd like to travel a bit more.

She'd like to be a bit more healthy.

He'd like to see his friends a lot more.

She'd like to spend a lot less.

PRACTICE

1 Choose the correct word(s) to complete the sentences.

1 I think I have quite / quite an / pretty interesting job.
2 My lifestyle is quite / a lot / reasonable busy.
3 I live a lot / more / fairly near to my work.
4 I would say I'm pretty / relative / fair happy at the moment.
5 I would like to go out with friends quite more / a bit more / bit.
6 She reduced her hours at work so now she works a bit more / a lot more / a bit less.
7 He wants to travel relatively / a bit more / fairly and see the country.
8 For the lifestyle I would like, I need to earn fairly / a lot more / a bit money.

2 Put the words in brackets in the correct place in the sentences.

1 I live in a small flat. (quite)
2 We have a comfortable life. (relatively)
3 I work more these days. (a lot)
4 My new car was expensive. (quite)

Past simple

We use the past simple for states and actions in the past. We often specify the time when they happened.

I left university in 2015.

He didn't know the way to Sam's house.

How did you meet Harry?

Past continuous

We use the past continuous to give the background information for a story. We use the past simple to talk about the main events.

I was walking through the park.

The birds were singing.

Children were playing football.

Often the past continuous action is interrupted by another action (in the past simple) in the same sentence.

I was reading a book when the phone rang.

I was listening to music when the internet crashed.

We often use while and as to talk about two actions which were happening at the same time.

They were closing the café as we were finishing our coffee.

For more information on state and action verbs see section 1A, page 104.

Past perfect

We form the past perfect with had + past participle.

+	I had finished my work.
-	They hadn't visited for a long time.
?	Had you been there before?

We use the past perfect to make it clear that an action happened earlier in the past, before another action. We use the past perfect for the earlier past action.

I didn't have any money because I had lost my wallet.

When it is already clear which past action came first, we can use the past simple for both actions.

He had lived in Dublin for five years before he moved to Cork.

He lived in Dublin for five years before he moved to Cork.

We often use the past perfect after thinking verbs like discover, find out, realise, remember, think, etc.

When I got to work, I realised I'd left my laptop at home.

PRACTICE

1 Choose the correct word(s) to complete the sentences.

1 Fabio was cycling / cycled to work when he fell / had fallen off his bike.
2 I couldn't walk properly because I had damaged / was damaging my knee the previous day.
3 Jack was very surprised when he saw that I painted / had painted the living room pink!
4 I couldn't get into my flat because I had forgotten / was forgetting my keys.
5 I had never been / was never going to Egypt before, so I was really excited to see the Pyramids.
6 Our train was cancelled, so we were waiting / had waited for the next one to arrive.
7 I looked / was looking through some old photographs and I found / was finding this one of you at university.
8 When I got to the airport, I realised I left / I'd left my passport at home.
9 He was going / had gone so fast down the ski slope that he crashed into the restaurant.
10 We were sitting / had sat on the balcony and enjoying the view of the lake.

2 Complete the text with the verbs in the box.

arrived	came off	felt	got onto	had rained was running	was wearing	was working

A few years ago, I [1]_____ in Bangkok. It was my first week in a new job and it was monsoon season. The streets were very wet because it [2]_____ a lot the night before. I [3]_____ to catch the bus in and I [4]_____ flip-flops, which was probably not a very good idea. The water in the road was very deep, so as I [5]_____ the bus, one of my flip-flops [6]_____ and floated down the road. I [7]_____ at the school with just one shoe. I [8]_____ so embarrassed!

2B past simple and present perfect

page 24

Present perfect

We form the present perfect with have/has + past participle.

+	I've been to Poland a few times.
-	He hasn't worked here before.
?	Have you bought a new car?

We use the present perfect for general experiences in the past when it isn't important or isn't known exactly when these things happened.

I've been to Paris.

I haven't seen that film.

We often use the present perfect with ever and never.

Have you ever been to New York?

I've never met your brother.

We also use the present perfect when a past action is relevant in the present.

I can't play tennis today. I've hurt my leg.

We can also use the present perfect if we are talking about a period of time that is unfinished.

I've run six miles today. (Today is unfinished so I can run more.)

Past simple

We use the past simple for actions that happened at a specific time in the past.

I went to Sweden in 2019.

I ate a hamburger yesterday.

Notice the difference between the past simple and present perfect.

I went to London last year. (a specific time in the past)

I've been to London. (It isn't known when this happened.)

I ran five kilometres this morning. (a time in the past)

I've run five kilometres today. (an unfinished period of time)

Conversations about general experiences often begin with the present perfect and continue in the past simple as the speaker adds details.

A: I've been to Colombia.

B: Really? Where did you go?

A: I went to Medellín.

PRACTICE

1 Complete the conversations with the correct past simple or present perfect form of the verbs in brackets.

1 A: She [1]_____ her first book in 2018. (publish)
B: [2]_____ anything else since then? (she / write)
A: Yes, she [3]_____ me her second book a few months ago. (send)

2 A: My partner [4]_____ in a play last year. (act)
B: Really? Which one?
A: I can't remember. He [5]_____ in so many, I never remember the names. (be)

3 A: I do most sports, but I [6]_____ tennis. I'd love to learn. (never / play)
B: I can teach you. I [7]_____ all my life! (play)

4 A: [8]_____ Warsaw? (you / ever / visit)
B: Yes, many times. The last time I [9]_____ was in 2019. (go)
A: Really?! I [10]_____ there in 2019, too. (be)

2 Complete the text with the correct past simple or present perfect form of the verbs in brackets.

Bookworms together

I [1]'ve known (know) my best friend Natasha for over twenty years. We [2]_____ (become) close friends at school because of a shared love of stories. When I was young, I [3]_____ (be) extremely shy. I spent most of my time reading. That's how I [4]_____ (meet) Natasha – in the school library. We [5]_____ (discover) that we both loved books and films. Since those days we [6]_____ (go) to the cinema together hundreds of times. Also, we [7]_____ (share) hundreds of books: if she reads something she likes, she gives it to me to read, and I do the same. In all these years we [8]_____ (not disagree) once!

2C How to … apologise and give reasons

page 27

We use these phrases to apologise and accept the apology.

apologise	accept the apology
Sorry I'm late.	Don't worry.
Sorry to keep you waiting.	No problem.
I'm really sorry.	It's/That's fine.
I apologise.	It's/That's OK.
Sorry about that.	Never mind.

We use these phrases to give a reason and accept responsibility.

give a reason	accept responsibility

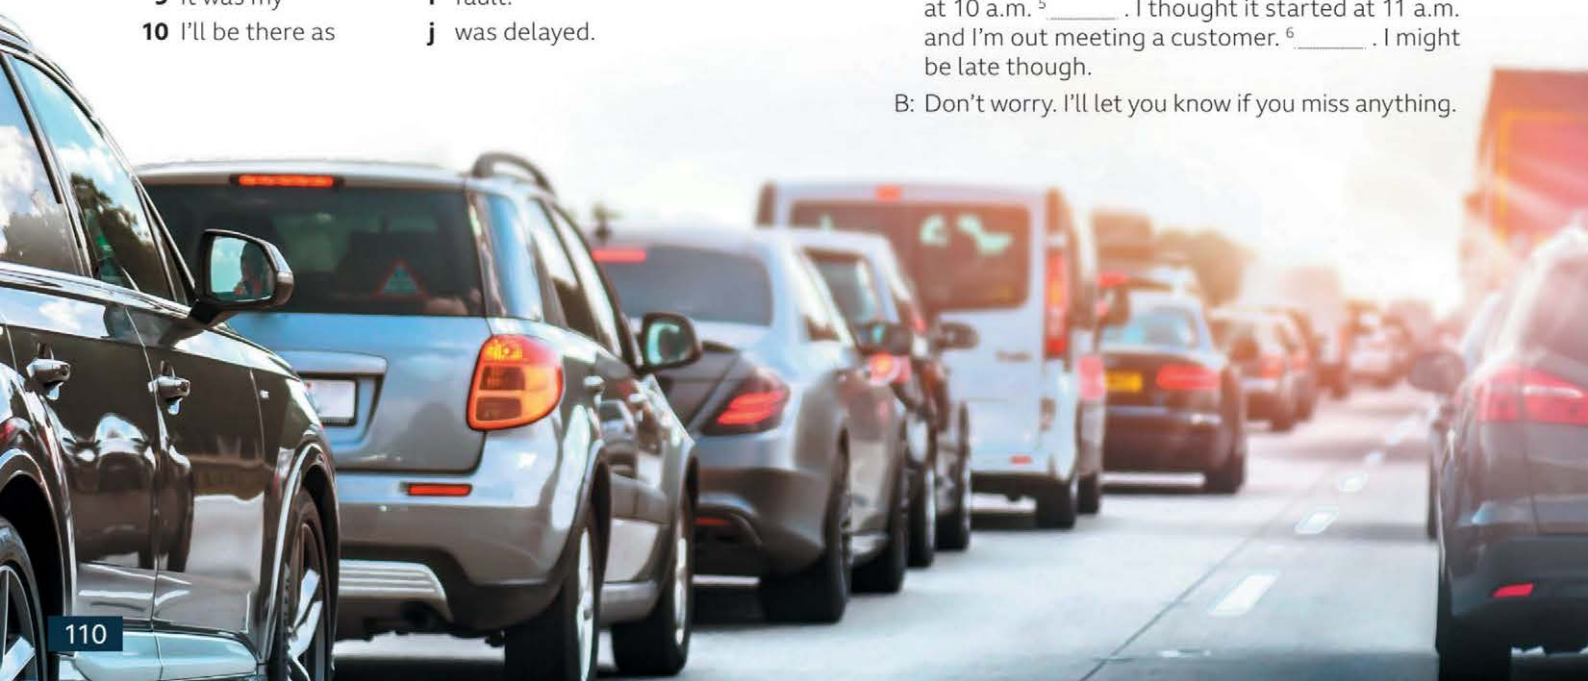
B: Don't worry. I'll let you know if you miss anything.



2D prepositions of time

page 28

We use prepositions of time to specify exactly when something happens.

before/after/during/until/between

We use before/after + a specific time or event.

We need to be there before 7 p.m.

After breakfast, she left for school.

We use during to talk about something that happens within a period of time.

During the 2010s a lot of people left the country.

We talked about it during lunch.

We use until/till to talk about something which happens up to a certain time and then stops.

She worked there until 2004. (Then she changed jobs.)

We'll wait till 6 p.m.

We use between to talk about a time that starts at a certain point and finishes at a certain point.

They lived in New York between 2005 and 2008.

They're leaving between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.

in/at/on

We use in + months/years/decades/centuries/seasons.

We're going on holiday in August.

In 2020 I changed my career.

In the 1990s, there was a lot of investment.

In the twenty-first century, this type of work has become important.

We spend a lot of time on the beach in the summer.

We also use in + a period of time, to show when something will happen.

I'll see you in ten minutes.

The conference finishes in three hours.

We use at + a specific time.

We need to be there at 5 o'clock.

The film starts at 8.30 p.m.

We also use at + certain words such as weekend and night.

Let's go there at the weekend.

I wouldn't go there at night.

We use on + dates/days.

I'll see you on Wednesday afternoon.

My birthday is on 12 July.

They celebrate on New Year's Day.

3A question forms

page 33

Word order in questions

Notice the word order in questions.

question word	auxiliary verb	subject	verb
Where	do	you	live?
What	did	he	want?
When	are	they	coming?
Where	have	you	been?

Subject questions

When we ask about the subject of a verb, we don't use an auxiliary verb.

Who invited you to the party? John invited me. (We are asking about the subject.)

Who did you invite to the party? I invited all my friends. (We are asking about the object.)

Notice the word order in subject questions.

question word	verb	object
Who	wants	a drink?
What	happened?	–
Who	ate	the sandwich?

Compare subject and object questions.

Object question: What did he write?

Subject question: Who wrote it?

Questions with prepositions

When we use a verb + preposition such as look for, write about, listen to, etc., we usually keep the verb and preposition together. The preposition usually comes at the end of the question.

What did you talk about? Who are you looking for? What music do you listen to?

Yes/No questions

Yes/No questions don't use a question word. The answer to the question is Yes or No.

auxiliary verb	subject	verb	object
Does	he	work?
Did	you	know?
Have	they	arrived?
Did	you	enjoy	the film?
Are	they	watching	the game?

PRACTICE

1 Put the words in brackets in the correct places to make questions.

1 the competition? (won / who)

2 were you thinking? (what / about)

3 to the old theatre? (happened / what)

4 Where your great-grandparents come? (from / did)

5 your parents here? (live / did)

6 she here for a long time? (worked / has)

7 is all that noise? (who / making)

8 house you looking for? (are / which)

2 Write questions for the underlined answers.

1 Where _____ ?
I live in Madrid.

2 _____ the game?
Nick won the game.

3 _____ meat?
No, he doesn't eat meat.

4 _____ doing?
They are sleeping.

5 What _____ ?
I'm writing about my first holiday.

6 _____ home?
We got home yesterday.

7 _____ the chocolate?
We ate the chocolate.

8 _____ the film?
Yes, we liked the film.

3B future plans and intentions

page 36

be going to + infinitive

+	I'm going to start university next year.
-	She isn't going to move to Paris.
?	What are you going to do?

We use be going to when we have already decided on a future plan or intention.

She's going to buy a house. (NOT ~~She will buy a house~~.)

Present continuous: be + verb + -ing form

+	I'm starting my course in September.
-	We aren't going away for very long.
?	What time are you leaving in the morning?

We use the present continuous to talk about future plans and arrangements that have already been made. We usually specify a future time such as next week, on Friday, etc. unless it's obvious that we're talking about the future.

We're flying to Greece on Friday. (We've already bought the tickets.)

She's staying in a hotel near the airport. (The hotel is already booked.)

We often use the present continuous instead of be going to when the main verb is go or come. Both forms are possible.

Instead of: We're going to go to Spain.

we say: We're going to Spain.

Instead of: I'm going to come and see you later.

we say: I'm coming to see you later.

In many cases both the present continuous or be going to are possible, with only a small difference in meaning.

I'm playing basketball on Saturday. (It is arranged.)

I'm going to play basketball on Saturday. (This is my plan.)

will

+	We'll meet you at the station.
-	We won't see you tomorrow.
?	Will you want a taxi?

We use will + infinitive without to when there is no plan or fixed arrangement but we make the decision at the time of speaking.

I'm tired. I think I'll go to bed.

+	I might go out later.
-	We might not go on holiday this year.

We use might + infinitive without to talk about plans, when we are unsure what the plan is.

I might see you at the restaurant this evening. (But I'm not sure. I might decide not to go.)

We do not usually use might in question forms. It is considered to be old fashioned and formal.

Do you think you might see Maria later?

NOT ~~Might you see Maria later?~~

PRACTICE

1 Complete the conversations with the words in brackets in the correct form. Sometimes two options are possible.

1 A: What are you doing/going to do later? (do)
B: I 'm having dinner with my family. (have)

2 A: _____ you _____ to the match on Sunday? (come)
B: Yes, I _____ you there. (see)

3 A: A few of us _____ out for a meal later. Do you want to join us? (go)
B: Thanks, but I'm very tired. I think I _____ at home. (stay)

4 A: I'm _____ my boss later. (meet) I'm _____ him for more money. (ask)
B: Good luck!

5 A: My cousin _____ married in September. (get)
B: How lovely! Are they _____ a big celebration? (have)

6 A: I _____ from home tomorrow. (work)
B: That's fine. We _____ you if there are any problems. (call)

2 Choose the correct option (a, b or c).

1 He's _____ study biology at university.
a going b not going c going to

2 _____ to open a new shop here?
a Are they planning
b Will they plan
c They planning

3 We _____ have a holiday this year. We don't have enough money.
a 're not go b aren't going c aren't going to 4 _____ this afternoon?

a Are you going to work
b Are you work
c Will you working

5 I'm really hungry. I think I _____ stop for some lunch.
a 'll
b 'm going c might to 6 They _____ their exams next week.

a will to do b going to do c are doing

3C How to … make polite inquiries

page 39

We use indirect questions when we want to make inquiries or polite requests.

Could you tell me if I have to pay for the swimming pool?
Could you explain how I get a work permit?
I'd like to know when the next train leaves.
I'd like to know how this works.
Do you know whether I can pay by credit card?
Do you know where the halls of residence are?
Can I ask if you know the way to the museum?
Can you tell me what time the gym closes?

We use a different word order when we ask indirect questions. The word order is the same as for statements.

Can you tell me what time the train leaves?
NOT ~~Can you tell me what time does the train leave?~~
Do you know when the shops open?
NOT ~~Do you know when do the shops open?~~
I'd like to know where the bus stops.
NOT ~~I'd like to know where does the bus stop.~~

PRACTICE

1 Find the mistakes and correct them. Two of the sentences are correct.

1 Could you tell to me if this is the way to the employment office?
2 Can I ask if you know what time the gallery opens?
3 I'd like to know if do I need my student card to study on campus.
4 Do you know whether is the cinema open?
5 Can you telling me where the nearest petrol station is?
6 I'd like know what time the flight arrives.
7 Do you know how to get to the shopping mall?
8 Could you if tell whether I need a visa?

2 Put the words in brackets in the correct order to complete the questions.

1 A: (you / know / I / where / do / find / can) the tourist information office?
B: Yes, it's just over there.
2 A: (to / like / I'd / know) about some good places to visit in the city.
B: OK, I can give you some recommendations.
3 A: (you / tell / is / me / far / how / it / could) to the airport from here?
B: It's about twenty kilometres.
4 A: (you / tell / is / can / market / me / the / where)?
B: Yes, there's a big market in the next street.
5 A: (me / you / could / tell / the way) to the station?
B: I'm going there now. You can come with me.
6 A: (know / you / whether / can / do / I) use these facilities?
B: Yes, are you a student here?

3 Complete the indirect questions. Use the direct questions in brackets to help you.

1 A: Excuse me, could you tell [1] _____ ? (What time is the next train to Seville?)
B: Sure. It leaves in thirty minutes.
A: Do you know [2] _____ ? (Is it a direct train?)
B: It is. It takes two hours and twenty minutes.
A: Great. I'd like to know [3] _____ . (How much is a ticket?)
B: Let me look. Right, it's €61.50.
A: OK thanks. I'd like two tickets then, please.

2 A: Hello. I'm here for the college open day.
B: Could you tell [4] _____ , please? (What is your name, please?)
A: Yes, it's Melissa Walker.
B: OK Melissa. I have your name here. Can I ask [5] _____ ? (Is it your first time at the college?)
A: Yes, it is. I'm thinking of applying for a course here next year.
B: Lovely. Do you know [6] _____ ? (Which course do you want to do?)
A: Yes, I'd like to be a chef.
B: Great! Right, so someone will be here in about ten minutes to show you and other people around. Just wait here for now.
A: OK. Can you tell [7] _____ ? (Are there any toilets near here?)
B: Yes, they're just over there on the right.
A: And do you know [8] _____ ? (How long does the tour take?)
B: It'll be about an hour.

3D phrasal verbs

page 40

A phrasal verb is a combination of a verb and a particle (a preposition or an adverb). The combination has a new meaning that is usually different from the meaning of the verb alone.

I get up at 6.15. (get out of bed)

My car broke down. (stopped working)

Some phrasal verbs don't take an object.

I go out at night.

My alarm goes off at 7 a.m.

The plane takes off in ten minutes.

Other phrasal verbs take an object.

I put on my hat.

I look after my dog.

With some phrasal verbs, we cannot separate the verb and the particle.

I look after my children.

NOT ~~I look my children after.~~

We got on the bus.

NOT ~~We got the bus on.~~

Other examples of phrasal verbs that behave in this way are: look after someone, come across something (= find), stick with something (= continue doing it), log onto (a computer), break into (a house).

With other phrasal verbs, we can separate the verb and the particle.

I put on my coat.

I put my coat on.

Put away your toys!

Put your toys away!

We picked up our rubbish.

We picked our rubbish up.

I'll take off my jacket.

I'll take my jacket off.

Other examples of phrasal verbs that behave in this way are: throw away (rubbish), switch on (the TV), write down (information), shut down (a computer), look up (a word), try on (clothes).

If the object is a pronoun (e.g. it), the pronoun always comes before the particle.

I'll throw it away.

NOT ~~I'll throw away it.~~

She picked it up.

NOT ~~She picked up it.~~

PRACTICE

1 Rewrite the sentences. Use the phrasal verb in brackets in the correct form.

1 He didn't put my number on paper. (write down)
He _____ .

2 Rosa lifted the pen. (pick up)
Rosa _____ .

3 I'll tell him to leave. (go away)
I _____ .

4 My alarm didn't make any noise. (go off)
My alarm _____ .

5 They are caring for that dog. (look after)
They _____ .

6 Juan Pablo turned off his computer. (shut down)
Juan Pablo _____ .

7 I'm finding the word in the dictionary. (look up)
I'm _____ .

8 We put the old clothes in the rubbish bin yesterday. (throw away)
We _____ .

2 Look at the phrasal verbs in Ex 1 again. Which ones can have the particle in two positions?

1 He didn't write my number down. OR He didn't write down my number.

3 Correct the mistakes in the sentences. Two sentences are correct.

1 Can you help me put on all these toys in the cupboard?
2 I heard a new English word yesterday, but I forgot to write down it.
3 I don't like trying clothes on in shops.
4 We've just come some old photos across.
5 My alarm goes at 6 a.m. off every day.
6 You buy a ticket from the driver when you get up the bus.
7 I'm enjoying my Spanish lessons, so I'm going to stick with them.
8 Mrs Garcia has asked me to take her cat and look it after while she's away.
9 Their plane will take on in thirty minutes.
10 I saw some money on the floor so I picked up it.

4A modals for rules and advice

page 45

We can use modals to talk about rules and to give advice.

have to/need to/must

We use have to/need to/must when we talk about rules and things that are necessary. You have no choice, or it's a very strong suggestion.

You must talk to your manager about the problem.

We have to pay tax on the money we earn.

I need to get up early to catch my flight tomorrow.

In the positive form we often use have to, need to and must with the same meaning.

In the negative form, don't have to/needn't (or don't need to) and mustn't have different meanings. We use don't have to, needn't and don't need to when something is not necessary, but you can do it if you want.

You don't have to finish that report today. Tomorrow will be fine.

You needn't worry too much about that.

You don't need to bring a laptop.

We use mustn't when something is not allowed.

You mustn't use your mobile phone when you're on the plane. (It is not allowed and it's dangerous.)

We use must to talk about present or future situations. For past situations, we use had to.

We must leave soon, before it gets dark. (present/future)

We had to leave early yesterday morning. (past) should/shouldn't

We use should/shouldn't when we are giving advice. We use should to talk about things that are a good idea, and shouldn't to talk about things that are not a good idea.

You should come to work in smart clothes.

You shouldn't arrive late to meetings.

Should I wear a tie?

Notice that must and should are followed by the infinitive without to.

We must get there on time.

NOT ~~We must to get there on time.~~

You should ask Helen for some advice.

NOT ~~You should to ask Helen for some advice.~~

PRACTICE

4D present perfect + superlative

REFERENCE page 52

We use the present perfect with a superlative adjective to show that something is the best/worst/greatest, etc. experience of our whole life until now.

It's the most amazing holiday I've had.
It's the best film I've seen.
It's the biggest company I've worked for.
He's the strongest man I've met.

We often add ever to the present perfect structure. This emphasises that we are talking about our whole life. Ever goes between have and the past participle.

It's the nicest trip I've ever been on.
That's the most beautiful car I've ever seen.
It's the worst restaurant I've ever been to.

PRACTICE

1 Match the sentence halves.

1 This is the slowest car
2 Claire is the most unusual person
3 I think that was the worst meal
4 This is the most expensive hotel

5A relative clauses

page 58

Defining relative clauses

We use defining relative clauses to give important information about a person, place or thing. The information is essential in the sentence.

We use relative pronouns to join the main clause and the relative clause We use:

- who for people.
  He's the man who took my bag!
- where for places.
  This is the building where we got married.
- which for things.
  This is the bank card which she was looking for.
- when for times.
  That was the day when I graduated from university.
- whose for possessions.
  Is that the man whose phone you picked up?

We often use relative clauses to describe something we don't know the name of.

It's the thing which you use to hang up the washing.

To make the relative clause we use a relative pronoun + subject + verb.

Main clause	Relative clause
The is the house	where we lived.
They started to feel ill on the day.	when the spider bit them.

We can use that instead of who or which. We can also sometimes use it to replace when.

He's the man that took my bag!

This is the bank card that she was looking for.

2019 was the year that we first met.

We can leave out who, which and that when the subject of the verb in the main clause is not the same as the subject of the relative clause.

He's the man (who/that) I told you about.

The subject of the main clause is the man. The subject of the relative clause is I (I told you about him). The subjects are different, so we can leave out who or that.

He's the man who took my bag.

The subject of the main clause is the man and the subject of the relative clause is the man (the man took my bag), so we cannot leave out the pronoun who or that.

We can also sometimes leave out when.

2019 was the year we first met.

PRACTICE

1 Complete the sentences using who, which, where, when or whose.

1 That's the office _____ I did my work experience.
2 She's the woman _____ I was telling you about.
3 That's the article _____ he wrote for the magazine.
4 That was the moment _____ I realised my mistake!
5 This is the man _____ laptop I borrowed.
6 She's the girl _____ left the birthday party early.
7 I can't remember the time _____ I last spoke to them.
8 Eva married the man _____ she met online.
9 This is man _____ blog I was talking about.
10 This is the beach _____ I walk every morning.

2 Tick the sentences in Ex 1 where you can use that instead of a relative pronoun. In which sentences is it possible to leave out the relative pronoun?

5B reported speech

page 60

We use reported speech to report what someone said earlier.

After a past tense reporting verb, e.g. said, told, etc., the original verb often moves one tense back into the past.

direct speech	reported speech present simple	past simple present continuous	past continuous present perfect	past perfect
past simple	past perfect
am/is/are going to	was/were going to will	would
can	could
have to/has to	had to

'I always recycle my waste.'
He said (that) he always recycled his waste.

'I've passed my exams.'
She said (that) she had passed her exams.

'We saw her at the station.'
They said (that) they had seen her at the station.

'I'll help you.'
He said (that) he would help me.

There are sometimes other changes in reported speech, e.g. to pronouns and possessive adjectives.

'I'll go.'
She said (that) she would go.

'It's my car.'
He said (that) it was his car.

Say and tell are the most common reporting verbs. Notice the different verb patterns.

She said (to me) (that) she wanted to stay.
He told me that (that) he'd be late.

PRACTICE

1 Complete the reported statements. Change the verb tenses and make any other changes that are necessary.

5D will, might and be going to for predictions

page 65

We use will, might and be going to to make predictions about the future.

I think the price of petrol will go up.

When I go to university, I won't live at home.

I think we might win the World Cup.

I'm feeling ill so I might not go to college today.

It's going to be a difficult job.

I've got so much to do. It isn't going to be easy to finish everything.

We use will when we feel certain about a prediction.

I'm sure he will get the job.

We use might if we are not sure.

They might win the game, but they might not!

We use be going to when we can see evidence that something will happen.

Look at those black clouds – it's going to rain!

We can use probably if we are not sure about our prediction, and we use definitely when we are almost 100 percent sure.

He'll probably be late (but I'm not sure).

He'll definitely be late (he always is).

Notice that we use probably and definitely after will, but before won't.

She'll definitely pass the exam.

I definitely won't be able to make the meeting.

She probably won't call again.

We also use probably and definitely with be going to.

She's probably going to miss the bus.

He's definitely not going to meet us there.

PRACTICE

1 Match the sentence halves.

1 It's probably
2 We definitely
3 The team will
4 The car might
5 Sam and Laura are definitely
6 You might not a probably win their next match.

b going to snow tomorrow.
c hear from me until the weekend.
d won't have time to get to the shops later.
e not going to bring their kids to the party.
f break down on the way to work tomorrow.

2 Correct the mistakes in the sentences. Two sentences are correct.

1 I'm sure you play well tomorrow.
2 I can see from the look on your face that you're not probably going to enjoy this game.
3 You probably might get a message from Jon later.
4 I definitely will see you tonight.
5 Erika's definitely going to drive us to the cinema.

8 It's very popular, so we _____ be able to get tickets. (not / might)

6A used to

page 70

We use used to for talking about past habits and states which are usually no longer true.

As a child, I used to eat a lot of sweets.

You can also use the past simple with the same meaning.

As a child, I ate a lot of sweets.

+	I/You/He/She/It/We/They	used to live in France.
-		didn't use to see my parents.
?	Did they use to visit?

We don't use used to for things that happened only once, a specific number of times or a specific length of time. We use the past simple for this.

My family moved to the USA last year. NOT ~~My family used to move to the USA last year.~~

We went to Italy twice on holiday. NOT ~~We used to go to Italy twice on holiday.~~

I studied at university for three years. NOT ~~I used to study at university for three years.~~

In spoken English, we often use the negative form never used to rather than didn't use to.

I never used to see my cousins, except in the summer holidays.

In spoken English, we often leave out the verb or phrase after used to, especially in short answers.

A: Do you play tennis?

B: No, I used to, but I don't anymore.

PRACTICE

1 Which sentence is correct: a, b, or both? Why?

6B comparatives and superlatives

page 72

Comparing people, places and things

We use comparative adjectives to compare people, places or things.

I'm fitter than my brother.

This recipe is easier than the one I tried yesterday.

I think rugby is more dangerous than football.

For one-syllable adjectives, we add -er.

For two-syllable adjectives ending in -y, -y changes to -i.

For adjectives ending in consonant + vowel + consonant, we double the final consonant.

For longer adjectives (two syllables or more), we use more (or less) + adjective.

For one-syllable adjectives ending in -ed, we use more + adjective.

stressed → more stressed, bored → more bored

Some common adjectives are irregular.

good → better, bad → worse, far → further/farther

We often use (not) as + adjective + as … to make comparisons. As … as means that two things are the same, and not as … as means they are not the same.

This painting is just as good as the last one you did. (They are both equally good.)

This is not as expensive as you think. (It is cheaper.)

It's not as easy as you think. (It is more difficult.)

Comparing actions

We use comparative adverbs to compare two actions.

He listened more carefully when the teacher talked about the exam.

I don't speak English as well as my sister.

For regular adverbs, we add -er, or more (or less) + adverb.

fast → faster, slowly → more slowly, easily → less easily

Some adverbs are irregular.

well → better, badly → worse, far → further/farther

We've walked much further than I expected.

Superlatives

We use superlative adjectives and adverbs to compare people, places, things or actions with the rest of the group.

This is the most expensive museum in the city.

Martha ran the furthest of all the students.

For short adjectives and adverbs we add the + adjective/adverb + est.

strong → the strongest, fast → the fastest

For short adjectives and adverbs ending in -y, -y changes to -i.

easy → the easiest, happy → the happiest

For longer adjectives and adverbs (two syllables or more), we use the most/the least + adjective/adverb.

important > the most/the least important

This is the most important day of my life!

Let's take that one – it's the least expensive.

We usually use the before superlatives, but we can also use possessive adjectives.

That's her most famous sculpture.

We often use superlatives with the present perfect + ever.

It's the most beautiful painting I've ever seen!

PRACTICE

1 Complete the sentences with a comparative or superlative form of the word in brackets.

1 It was brilliant! It's the _____ film I've ever seen. (good)

6C How to … ask for and give opinions and reasons

page 75

We use these phrases to discuss opinions.

ask for an opinion

What do/did you think (of the meal/of the gallery/about what the tour guide said)?
How about you?
How was it?

give an opinion

I think/thought …
I would say (it was OK/it's too expensive)
In my view, (it wasn't very good/it's too loud).
For me, …

ask for a reason

Why do you think that?
What makes you say that?

give a reason

It's because …
The reason is …

agree to disagree

I suppose we're all different.
I guess it's good we're not all the same.
I guess we all like different things.

PRACTICE

1 Correct the sentences by adding the missing word to each one. A contraction counts as one word.

1 So you went to that new restaurant! How was?
2 What do you think this new design?
3 I just bought his new book; I would it's his best one!
4 I loved his new song. How you?

B: Really? What makes you [6]_____ ?

4 A: [7]_____ you think of that new art gallery?
B: It [8]_____ good. It's tiny. There isn't enough space to hang the paintings.

6D present perfect + for, since and yet

page 76

We use the present perfect with for and since to talk about things that started in the past and are still true now.

We've been married for fourteen years. (We got married fourteen years ago and we are still married.)

I've lived in Paris since 2016. (I started living in Paris in 2016, and I still live there.)

We use since to talk about the specific time when something started, e.g. last Saturday, 2018, June, last weekend, etc.

He's worked here since 2021.

I've known about the prize since Monday.

I've wanted to be an artist since I was a child.

We use for to talk about the period of time that something has continued, e.g. ten years, two months, a few weeks, a long time, etc.

I've lived in Berlin for eighteen years.

We haven't seen my mother for a few weeks.

We use the present perfect with yet to talk about 'at any time up to now'. We use it in negative sentences and questions when something hasn't happened up to now, but we expect it to happen soon.

Rosa hasn't arrived yet. I hope she gets here soon!

Have you finished your homework yet?

I haven't finished it yet. I'll do it later.

Notice that yet usually comes at the end of the sentence or question.

PRACTICE

1 Complete the table with the time phrases in the box.

a few years	yesterday	2021	ten minutes
2nd November	several hours	I was at school weeks	three or four months	this morning

7A first and second conditionals

page 82

First conditional

We use the first conditional to talk about possible situations in the future and their consequences.

If you give me your phone number, I'll call you when we're leaving.

When you get to the station, you'll see the hotel is just opposite.

We form the first conditional with If/When + present simple + will.

If you go to Spain, you'll be able to meet my brother.

We can change the order of the sentence, but if/when is always followed by the present simple. We use a comma when the if/when clause comes first, but not when it comes second.

If my train arrives on time, I'll meet you at 10 a.m.

I'll meet you at 10 a.m. if my train arrives on time.

In first conditional sentences if and when have different meanings. We use if when we are not sure if the situation will happen. We use when for a situation which we know will happen.

I'll tell Ben about the party when I see him. (I expect to see Ben.)

I'll tell Ben about the party if I see him. (I'm not sure if I will see Ben.)

Second conditional

We use the second conditional to talk about an unreal or imaginary situation and its consequences.

If I didn't have to work, I would spend all my time travelling. (I do have to work.)

If tourists spent more time in the city, they would get to know it better. (Tourists don't spend much time in the city.)

We form the second conditional with if + past simple + would.

If you had more free time, what would you do? (You don't have more free time.)

If I didn't have a job, I would spend more time with my children. (I do have a job.)

In spoken English would is contracted to 'd in the positive form and wouldn't in the negative form.

I'd be there if I had time.

If you ate more breakfast, you wouldn't be hungry all morning.

We do not usually contract would in the question form.

If you could go anywhere in the world, where would you go?

Would you give up your job if she asked you to?

PRACTICE

1 Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

1 If the weather is terrible, they will / would cancel the flights.
2 If I didn't have to work in the city, I will / would buy a house by the sea.
3 If they miss / will miss their flight, we will have to wait for ages.
4 If the climate would be / was better, we wouldn't have to travel in the summer.
5 If the tourists won't leave / didn't leave so much mess, it wouldn't be such a big problem.
6 When you get / got to the hotel, I will call you to tell you where we are.

2 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

1 When we visit the museum, we _____ (buy) a souvenir.
2 If I don't find any cheap tickets, we _____ (not go) to Malta.
3 If people _____ (want) to improve the situation, they would do something about it.
4 I'll get some money when the bank _____ (open).
5 If he _____ (enjoy) his job, he wouldn't want to change it.
6 I _____ (visit) Australia if I had enough money!

3 Complete the first and second conditional sentences using the prompts.

1 We might go to Cambridge tomorrow. We'll see uncle Rob.
If we _____ uncle Rob.
2 I don't have a car, so I won't drive you to the station.
I _____ a car.
3 We plan to move out of the city. First, we need to sell our house.
We _____ our house.
4 I can't travel around the world because I have a job.
If I _____ around the world.

7B quantifiers

page 83

We use quantifiers to give information about the amount of something. They can say if it's a big or small amount, the right amount or more/less than the right amount.

	meaning	countable nouns	uncountable nouns	positive (+)	negative (-)	questions (?)	examples much	large amount		✓		✓	✓	How much time do we have?
many	large amount	✓		(rarely)	✓	✓	I don't have many friends.
lots of/a lot of	large amount	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	I spend a lot of time in Paris.
plenty of	large amount	✓	✓	✓			I have plenty of milk and apples.
too much	more than needed		✓	✓	✓	✓	There's too much salt on this meat.
too many	more than needed	✓		✓	✓	✓	There are too many people here.
enough	the right amount	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	There isn't enough time.
a few	small amount	✓		✓			She knows a few actors.
a bit/a little	small amount		✓	✓		✓	I need a bit of help.
hardly any	very small amount	✓	✓	✓			I have hardly any friends.

Too + adjective means more than you need or want.

This film is too long.

Remember Too does not mean the same as very. When we use too, it means there is a problem.

PRACTICE

1 Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

1 I didn't see much / many people in the restaurant.
2 Can I have a bit of / a few sugar in my tea, please?

5 There's too much / many noise in here.
6 I read hardly any / enough books last summer.
7 We have too / plenty of time before the flight leaves.
8 I don't know many / a few songs by that band.

2 Correct the mistakes with quantifiers in the sentences. Two sentences are correct.

1 There are too much people in here. It's too crowded.
2 If you've got a little time, I'd love your help.
3 There's hardly pasta. How can I make a meal for four people?
4 Put a few cheese on the top, but not too much!
5 Sorry, I have enough money to pay for both drinks, so I'll just pay for mine.
6 There isn't much paper in the printer.
7 We've got plenty people to help us with the cleaning.
8 There's much juice left, so please have some!

3 Complete the text with the words in the box.

a	bit	enough	few	hardly
much	plenty	too

7D reflexive pronouns

page 89

We use reflexive pronouns to show actions that we do to ourselves. The pronoun comes after a verb or preposition.

I hurt myself.
They introduced themselves.
He made a coffee for himself.

By + reflexive pronoun means 'alone'.

She works best by herself.
I like travelling by myself.

Some verbs + reflexive pronouns are used as fixed expressions.

Enjoy yourself!
Help yourself! (Take something for free.)
Behave yourself! (Be good.)

We sometimes use reflexive pronouns for emphasis. In this case, the reflexive pronoun often goes at the end of the sentence.

Did you make this yourself? (without any help)
I did it myself. (It's a big achievement and no one helped me.)

object pronouns	reflexive pronouns
me	myself
you	yourself yourselves (plural)
him	himself
her	herself
it	itself
us	ourselves
them	themselves

PRACTICE

1 Correct the mistakes in the sentences.

1 I can't believe your brother made all this food by myself.
2 Shall we get the kids to clean the car or do it themselves?
3 That's strange. The light just switched herself on.
4 Mohammed just rode his bike by itself for the first time!
5 I told yourself not to be nervous and that I could do it!
6 You can do it by myself. You don't need my help.
7 Maria painted the whole room by yourself.
8 Maki and Rico wanted to order pizza, but I asked them to make one yourselves.

2 Complete the sentences with the correct reflexive pronouns.

1 Are you OK? Have you hurt _____ ?

7 Mary cut _____ while she was cooking.
8 We made the cake _____ .
9 My alarm clock switches _____ off after one minute.
10 Hi, Jen! The food is over there. Help _____ .

3 Choose the correct words to complete the text.

I didn't want to travel around Central America by [1]my own / myself, so I invited a friend. But we soon started arguing. He didn't want to do anything by [2]himself / myself and he only wanted to visit tourist attractions. Eventually, we decided to travel by [3]yourselves / ourselves and meet in Honduras in a month. I called and told my mother. She was worried. She said, 'What if you run out of money or hurt [4]himself / yourself?' I said I was fine. It was true. Without my friend, I really enjoyed [5]myself / my own. I never got lonely because I introduced [6]me / myself to local people in El Salvador and learnt about local customs in Nicaragua. When you travel alone, I think you explore more and learn about [7]yourself / myself. I really grew up that year. After a month, I met my friend in Honduras, as planned. He seemed different. He wanted to stay there and make a new life for [8]itself / himself. I left and never saw him again.

8A can, could, be able to

page 93

We use can/can't for ability in the present, and could/couldn't for ability in the past.

	present	past
+	I can cook.	I could run fast.
-	I can't drive.	He couldn't do maths.
?	Can you speak Spanish?	Could you cook when you were younger?

We can also use be able to for ability in the present and past.

	present	past
+	She's able to write well.	When I was three, I was able to read.
-	He isn't able to drive.	At the age of two, he wasn't able to walk.
?	Are you able to speak French?	Were you able to get a job?

In the present, we can use can or be able to for a general ability or an ability at one specific time.

I can/am able to install a washing machine. (a general ability)

We can/are able to offer you a free ticket today. (a specific time)

In the past, we can use could or was/were able to for a general ability.

For an ability at one specific time in the past, we use was/were able to, but NOT ~~could~~.

I could/was able to swim when I was four. (a general ability)

When the boat sank, we ~~could~~ were able to swim to safety. (a specific time)

We can use couldn't and wasn't/weren't able to for a general ability in the past and an ability at one specific time.

I couldn't/wasn't able to swim when I was four. (a general ability)

I didn't have a bottle opener, so I couldn't/wasn't able to open the bottle. (a specific time)

PRACTICE

1 Correct five mistakes with can, could and be able to in the text.

Johnny isn't able make full sentences yet, but he can to say several words such as 'mama' and 'dada', which he couldn't a month ago. He able to understand various commands like, 'No!' and 'Come here' and he recognises his name. His movement is improving, too. Yesterday, he crawled from the living room to the kitchen. He's also getting better with his hands. He can hold a pencil and he is able to drawing simple pictures. Yesterday, he found a red pen and he could draw all over the kitchen wall!

2 Choose the correct words. Sometimes, both options are possible.

1 I was / wasn't able to pass my driving test first time, but I did the second time.
2 We can / 're able to help you if you like.
3 After ten minutes of trying, we could / were able to open the door.
4 I can / could speak two languages well when I was four.
5 Rosie can / could sing really well these days.

8B active and passive

page 97

We use an active verb form to talk about things people do.

We watched television.

Sam ate a sandwich.

We use a passive verb form:

- to talk about what happens to things or people.
  Khaled was given a prize.
- when we don't know the doer (the person or thing that does the action of the verb).
  The laptop was stolen.
- when the identity of the doer of the action is not important.
  The video was watched by more than a million viewers.
- when the doer of the action is obvious.
  The thief was arrested. (It is obvious that the thief was arrested by the police.)

If we want to mention who does the action of a passive verb, we use by.

The television was invented by John Logie Baird.

We sometimes use the passive form to emphasise a particular part of the sentence.

Compare:

Google bought YouTube in 2006 for US$1.65 billion.

YouTube was bought in 2006 by Google.

In the active sentence, the emphasis is on Google.

In the second (passive) sentence, the emphasis is on YouTube.

We often use the passive in formal writing, e.g. newspaper reports or scientific reports.

	active	passive
present simple	The shop doesn't accept credit cards.	Credit cards aren't accepted here.
present continuous	Is anyone using that computer at the moment?	Is that computer being used at the moment?
past simple	Someone told us to be here at 8 a.m.	We were told to be here at 8 a.m.
present perfect	No one has asked us about the video.	We haven't been asked about the video.

PRACTICE

1 Choose the correct verb forms to complete the sentences.

1 All the clips have been uploaded / are upload / uploaded to the website.
2 We can't use the laptop because it's being repaired / it's repairing / it was repaired right now.
3 The video filmed / was filmed / filming in Mexico City.
4 Were those documents be sent / send / sent by email or by post?
5 Not many houses are been built / are being built / are being build at the moment.
6 Are those toys make / been made / made by hand?
7 We weren't employed / didn't employed / weren't employ by the government until 2018.
8 That piano isn't been played / hasn't be played / hasn't been played for years.

8D -ing form

page 100

Sometimes we use two verbs together.

I love singing.

After some verbs we put the second verb into the -ing form. We use the -ing form after these verbs: begin, delay, hate, imagine, keep, like, practise, recommend, remember, suggest.

She practises listening to English every day.

I recommend using an app.

Keep working!

I suggest doing a course.

After some verbs, it is possible to use the -ing form or the infinitive with to. There is very little change in meaning.

I like cooking. I like to cook.

I hate running. I hate to run.

I began exercising. I began to exercise.

Some expressions with verbs are also followed by the -ing form. For example:

can't stand look forward to wouldn't mind

I can't stand listening to really loud music.

I wouldn't mind trying that new restaurant.

I look forward to meeting you.

PRACTICE

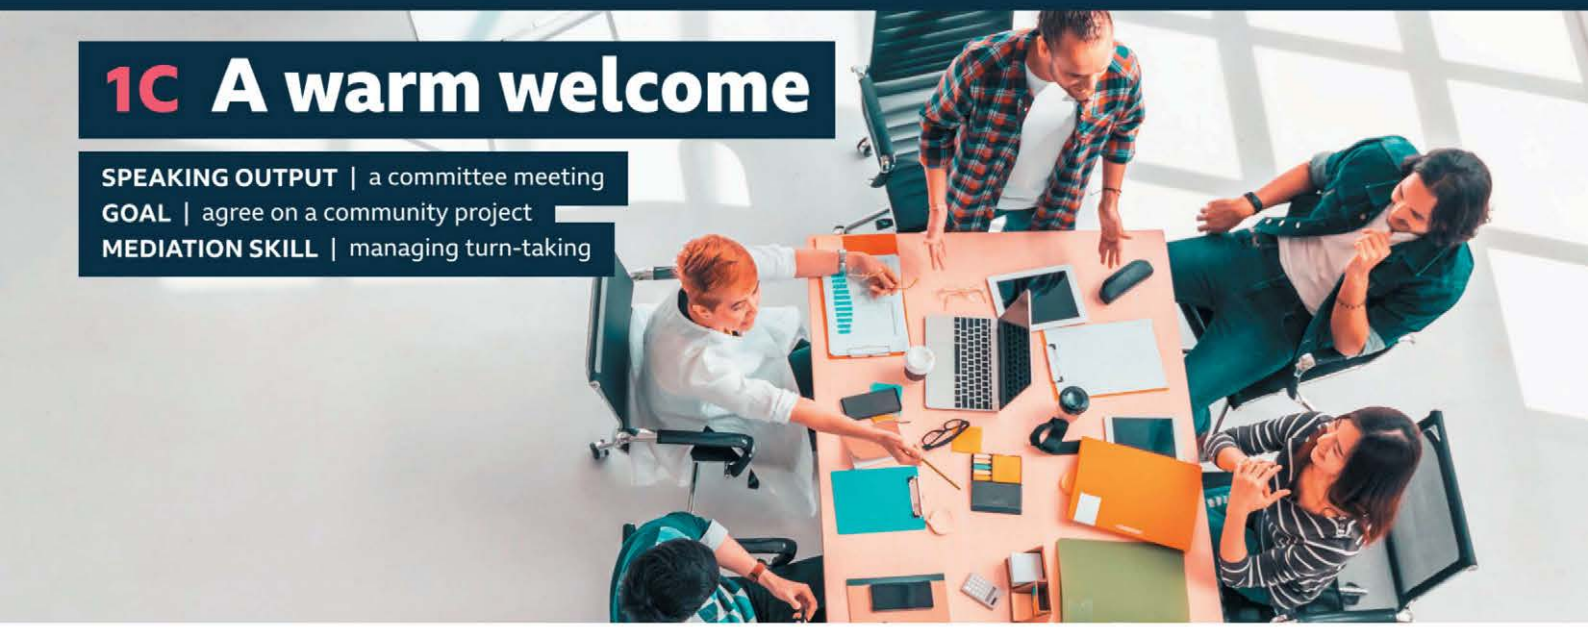
1C A warm welcome

SPEAKING OUTPUT | a committee meeting
GOAL | agree on a community project
MEDIATION SKILL | managing turn-taking



WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 Have you ever moved to a new country, city or area?
2 How do you meet people in a new place?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario and answer the questions.

1 What is happening in the town?
2 What is the meeting about?
3 Who are you trying to help?

SCENARIO

You live in a town where there are many people moving to the area. You work for a community group and you want to help new people feel welcome in the town. You also want to help other people in the area who don't have a lot of social contact. The group arranges a meeting to talk about different ideas.

Town meeting agenda

19 February, 19.00, Town Hall

NOTE: what are the advantages and disadvantages for each activity or event? We also need to think of who the events would be good for (age groups, for example).

1 Cultural activities – art, theatre, music
   - Which activities? Where?
2 Community events (for example, fairs, markets, food festivals)
   - What events? • When? Who will organise?
3 Physical activities
   - Which sports or activities?

3 Read the meeting agenda and write notes. Which idea do you think is the best? What are the advantages and disadvantages of each idea?

4 Read the Mediation Skill box. Think of one more phrase for each section.

MEDIATION SKILL
managing turn-taking

When you are working in a group, it's important to get everyone's ideas, share your own ideas and make sure you discuss all the important points. Here are some ways to do that.

Finish someone's turn

A: Some people don't like using technology …
B: So, you think it will be difficult for some people to use social media. Good point!

Bring new people into the conversation

What's your opinion on that, Goran?
What do you think, Gio?

Introduce a new topic

How about social media groups?
What do you think about the idea of cultural activities?

MEDIATE

5 Work in groups of three and discuss the ideas on the meeting agenda. Take turns to introduce each point on the agenda.

Student A: Start the meeting and introduce the first topic: cultural activities.

Student B: Introduce the second topic: community events.

Student C: Introduce the third topic: physical activities.

6 Can you think of any other good ideas to add to the plan? Discuss them with your group.

2C Let's talk about it

SPEAKING OUTPUT | a meeting about a problem at work
GOAL | solve a problem between work colleagues
MEDIATION SKILL | asking questions to deal with disagreements

WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 Have you ever had a disagreement with someone at work or school?
2 What happened? Did you solve the problem?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario and the article about workplace disagreements. Answer the questions.

1 Are disagreements between colleagues always negative?
2 What are the negative effects of work disagreements?

SCENARIO

You are a manager at Finca Bank. You notice that some of the people in your team are not working well together. It's making life difficult for everyone and causing problems on an important project.

You're not sure what to do about it, so you speak to a colleague. Your colleague sends you an article about dealing with conflict at work.

Dealing with conflict at work

In a work environment, people should be able to work out small problems. Some disagreements are natural and can even help people to be creative. However, as a manager, sometimes you need to do something about conflict, especially if it causes difficulties for your team.

Talk to everyone involved. Ask questions, encourage them to be honest and open, and listen.

When you have spoken to everyone and understand the reasons for the problem, think of ways you can solve the problem together. Ask people what they think they can do about it. It will be more successful if people agree to a solution.

Remember that not all conflict is bad. It sometimes happens between people working hard in a busy place. However, when conflict stops people doing their work, asking questions and communicating honestly is the only way to solve it.

3 Look at the list of issues. Discuss them and put them in order from the most to least serious.

- She sends me work messages at five in the morning!
- The way he writes emails is very direct … and it seems rude!
- She interrupts me in meetings – I can't share my ideas.
- He takes my ideas and says they are his.
- I don't like the way she speaks to customers.
- He always leaves everything till the last minute. It's really stressful.

4 Read the Mediation Skill box and think about the advice in the article. Choose one of the statements in Ex 3. What questions would you ask the people involved?

MEDIATION SKILL
asking questions to deal with disagreements

When you are trying to find a solution to a problem or a disagreement between people, it's important to understand the details about what has happened, the reasons for it and the effects it has had on people. So, you should ask questions to understand what happened and how people feel.

Ask about the disagreement from their point of view

What exactly happened?
What's the problem between you and Sabine?
So Tom, did you interrupt her in the meeting?

Find out the reasons for it

Why do you think she does that?
And why did you do that?

Think about the effects it has

What problems does it cause?
How do you think she feels about that?

MEDIATE

5 Work in groups of three. Take turns to play the role of the manager and ask questions to resolve a disagreement at work. Prepare what you are going to say for each conversation.

Student A: Explain how Student B takes your ideas. Student C is the manager.

Student B: Explain that Student C interrupts you in meetings. Student A is the manager.

Student C: Explain that Student A sends you work messages early in the morning. Student B is the manager.

3C Where in the world?

WRITING OUTPUT | an online post
GOAL | give a friend advice about where to study English
MEDIATION SKILL | describing advantages and disadvantages

WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

Where do you think are the best places in the world to study English? Why? Is it the place, the schools or other activities?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario. What does Sakura want to know?

SCENARIO

Your classmate Sakura is thinking about studying English abroad and she posts a question on your online class forum.

Sakura

Hi, everyone! I want to keep studying English next year, but I'm not sure where to go. I want to go somewhere a bit different as I have already been to the UK and the USA. I read something about Malta, which looks nice. Does anyone have any other ideas?

You know that Sakura enjoys eating out, socialising and meeting new people. She is used to living in a big city, but she also enjoys nature and doing things outdoors.

3 Work in pairs. Read about one destination in the text and write notes about the important things to tell Sakura.

Student A: Read about Belize and write notes.

Student B: Read about Iceland and write notes.

4 Read the Mediation Skill box. Think of the country you read about in Ex 3. Write a sentence about an advantage and a disadvantage of that place.

MEDIATION SKILL
describing advantages and disadvantages

When you're giving someone a recommendation, it's useful to think about advantages and disadvantages. Here are some phrases you can use.

It's an interesting place, but the transport isn't great.

The weather is pretty good in the summer – winter is a different story!

It's not the busiest city, but there's still a lot to do.

Another good thing is that it's not very expensive.

Belize

It may not be a large country, but Belize has a lot to offer. You can visit Mayan ruins, go hiking in rainforests, visit beautiful beaches to go surfing or diving and enjoy delicious Caribbean food and nightlife. English is the official language of Belize – in fact, it's the only country in Central America where English is the official language and it has some great language schools. Your classmates will be from all over the world. Travelling around Belize isn't always easy because some of the roads are not very good and the buses are sometimes slow! But that's not a problem if you have some time. It's also not the easiest place to get to, but it's well worth the trip!

Iceland

It's true that English isn't the official language of Iceland. However, 80 percent of the country's population speak perfect English and the people are very happy to speak English with tourists, so you'll get lots of practice. There are some excellent English-language schools in Reykjavik, the capital city. Reykjavik also has plenty of things to do: interesting museums and galleries, impressive architecture and fantastic bars and restaurants. Outside the city, Iceland has beautiful scenery, including mountains, waterfalls and lakes. It's true that Iceland is an expensive place to visit, and make sure you prepare for the weather. But whatever the weather, studying in Iceland is an unforgettable experience.

MEDIATE

5 Post a comment to Sakura.

Student A: Tell her about Belize and explain why it would be a good place to visit.

Student B: Tell her about Iceland and explain why it would be a good place for Taki to visit.

6 Read your partner's online post and write a comment to reply. Discuss your posts and comments.

4C Let's play!

SPEAKING OUTPUT | a description of a word game
GOAL | help someone understand a game
MEDIATION SKILL | describing how something is similar or different to something else

WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 What word games do you know?
2 Do you ever play word games in English? If not, would you like to try?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario. How will you decide which word game to play?

SCENARIO

Your class decides to have a games evening and you decide to include a word game. There are different suggestions for games to play. You will vote to choose the game you want to play.

3 Work in pairs and look at the rules of the games.

Student A: Read about Pronunciation Ships and write notes about the important details. What is the aim of the game?

Student B: Read about Sheep and Cows and write notes about the important details. What is the aim of the game?

Pronunciation Ships

Work in pairs. Each player creates an identical grid with words along the top and down the side.

	so	saw	know	now
sheep ship cheap chip

Then draw boats on three of the squares. Do not show your partner where you put the boats.

Take it in turns to read out two words, one from the left side and one from the top, e.g. 'sheep-now'. Your partner will say 'hit' or 'miss' if you hit or missed one of their boats. The winner is the first person to hit all their opponent's boats.

Sheep and Cows

This is a word-guessing game for pairs or a small group. The first player chooses a word with a set number of letters, and keeps it secret. The other players take turns to guess the word by saying a word with the same number of letters. The first player tells them how many letters match in the right position (sheep) and how many letters are correct but in the wrong position (cows). The first player to guess the word correctly scores a point. Then the next player chooses a word.

A: Three letters.
B: Sad.
A: That's one sheep.
B: Tap.
A: One sheep, one cow!
B: Cat.
A: Correct!

4 Work in pairs. Read the Mediation Skill box. Use the phrases to compare two games or sports you know (e.g. rugby and football, basketball and volleyball).

MEDIATION SKILL

describing how something is similar or different to something else

When you want to help someone understand new information, it's useful to compare it to things they already know. To do that, you can describe similarities and differences.

It's like a crossword, but instead of reading clues, you have to write them.

You see other people's letters, but not your own letters.

It's different from Scrabble™, you play it on your own.

It's better than the other game because you have to help each other.

MEDIATE

5 Work in pairs. Use phrases in the Mediation Skill box to help your classmates understand a new game.

Student A: Tell your partner about Sheep and Cows.
Student B: Ask questions and check that you understand the game.
Student B: Tell your partner about Pronunciation Ships.
Student A: Ask questions and check that you understand the game.

6 Work in pairs. Decide which game to play, and then play it.

5C Change of plans

SPEAKING OUTPUT | an informal discussion about plans
GOAL | agree on a plan
MEDIATION SKILL | agreeing to a change of plans

WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs. Think of a time you had to change plans. Discuss the questions.

1 What happened?
2 What did you do?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario and answer the questions.

1 What were your plans and what is the problem?
2 What might you decide to do next?

SCENARIO

You and a group of friends bought tickets to go to a music festival in the summer. A few weeks before the festival, you receive this email from the organisers.

Dear music fan,

We have some very sad news about the Max Farm MusicFest. Unfortunately, we have to cancel the event this year as there are some problems with the location and we don't have time to arrange a new one. We'll write to you soon with more information.

3 Work in pairs and follow the instructions.

Student A: Read the next email from the organisers and note the important information.

Student B: Read about the City Radio Arts festival and note the important information.

Max MusicFest

We're sorry that the festival is cancelled this year, but we promise to make next year's festival bigger and better and we're giving you tickets! We will have ten more world-famous artists to bring you, so you will get an extra day of entertainment.

You can also upgrade your accommodation for just $30 per person and we'll give you vouchers for some of the great food that will be available.

So don't ask for a refund, just wait another year!

City Radio Arts Festival

The Max festival is cancelled this year, but don't worry … City Radio's annual festival is going to be better than ever this summer.

The festival is famous for its theatre, food and comedy, but this year we'll have a lot of music, too – ten bands that were going to play at Max Farm are booked to play the festival.

We still have some tickets available, but don't wait too long!

4 Read the Mediation Skill box. Think of another phrase for each section.

MEDIATION SKILL
agreeing to a change of plans

When you need to change plans as a group, it's important to listen and understand other people's ideas and think about the options. When you want to decide what to do next, share your ideas and explain the reasons for your ideas.

Show you understand how someone feels

Yes, I see what you mean.
I know how you feel.

Check you understand an idea

So, you're saying you want to wait?

Explain your reasons

They might cancel the MusicFest again next year so let's get our money back. Then we can do something else – like the arts festival.

Deciding what to do

What do you think we should do?
Why don't we … ?

MEDIATE

5 Work in pairs. Discuss your options and decide on a plan.

Student A: You want to wait and go to the MusicFest next year.

Student B: You want to get a refund so you can do something else this year.

6C Book club

SPEAKING OUTPUT | an informal discussion
GOAL | agree on a book to read for a book club
MEDIATION SKILL | describing why something interests you

WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 What was the last book you read? Did you enjoy it? Why/Why not?
2 Have you ever been part of a book club?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario. How will your group decide which book to read?

SCENARIO

You want to a start a book group in your class.
Read some book reviews. Explain to the rest of the group which book interests you and vote to decide which book to read.

3 Read three book reviews and decide which ones might be interesting to read.

The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time

Genre: detective story

This is not an ordinary mystery novel. The 'detective' is a teenage boy called Christopher, who has Asperger's syndrome, and he finds communicating with people very difficult. One night, his neighbour's dog is killed and Christopher, who has never travelled far from home, decides to investigate what happened. He begins an incredible journey to find the truth.

Freakonomics

Genre: Non-fiction – economics

Freakonomics asks some interesting questions and gives us some very surprising answers: for example, which is more dangerous, a gun or a swimming pool? He uses facts and analysis to make you question what you know. It's great to read just a chapter, but you might find it impossible to stop reading. There is also a great podcast of the same name that you can listen to!

The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy

Genre: comedy, science-fiction

This is the story of Arthur Dent, a normal man who finds himself going on an extraordinary trip through space. On the trip he meets many interesting characters. For example, there's Zaphod Beeblebrox, the loud president of the Galaxy; and Marvin, an unhappy robot. The only other normal human on the journey is Trillian. They're chased all the way to the Restaurant at the End of the Universe because someone believes Arthur knows the meaning of life! There is also a film version you can watch.

4 Read the Mediation Skill box. Think about the reviews you read in Ex 3 and decide which of the sentences below you would use to describe them.

MEDIATION SKILL
describing why something interests you

If you're trying to persuade someone why they should read a book, film or TV programme, describe why it's interesting to you.

What you like about the book in the review

It sounds fascinating.

It sounds like an interesting story.

Why it's similar to other things you enjoy

I enjoy books about real events.

I've read another book by the author.

Why other people might like it

I think it will give us lots of things to talk about.

I think people will enjoy it because it's quick and easy to read.

MEDIATE

5 Work in groups. Discuss which of the books is best for your group to read and give your reasons.

6 Vote on which of the books you'd like to read.

7C Singapore

WRITING OUTPUT | an informal message
GOAL | tell someone useful information
MEDIATION SKILL | selecting relevant information

WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 Have you ever been on a short city break? Where? What did you do?
2 What do you do before you travel to a country or city for the first time?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario and the messages. Do Paola and Rui need the same information about Singapore?

SCENARIO

Two friends send you different messages asking for advice.

Paola: I'm going to Singapore for work. I will have a lot of meetings and I won't have much time to go sightseeing. But do you know anywhere I can go to feel better after a long stressful day at the office? Also, where are the best places to eat? That's very important!

Rui: I'm going to be in Singapore for two days on the way to New Zealand. I heard that the food is great and you know I love shopping, though I don't want to spend too much money! I also read that there are interesting buildings. I don't have much time, but I want to do as much as possible – things I can't do anywhere else. Any ideas?

You went to Singapore a few months ago and still have a travel guide. Use it to write a reply with some suggestions.

3 Read the Mediation Skill box. Then read the travel guide and find one piece of information that would be useful for Paola and Rui, or both.

MEDIATION SKILL
selecting relevant information

To select relevant information, you need to think about two things. Firstly, think about the important points in the original text or conversation. Then consider the person you are sharing the information with and think about the information they have asked for, or that would be important for them.

Then think about the text or conversation and write a list of the information to answer the questions.

Explain why you're making your recommendations – so the reader understands why something is useful for them.

I know you like shopping. So, you should really go to …

If you don't want to spend a lot of money, go to …

Singapore
What to see and do

Marina Bay is a good place to start any visit to Singapore. Even though it's full of banks and other offices, it has a lot for tourists, too. The iconic Marina Bay Sands towers are an impressive piece of architecture and if you take the lift to the top, you can see the whole of Singapore. The views are amazing and you can get something to drink at the rooftop bar.

Marina Bay also has plenty of fantastic restaurants with a wide variety of international options. If you want to try some of the local dishes, check out the Malay quarter. For a cheaper but still delicious meal, you can go to a 'hawker centre'. There are hawkers (food sellers) all over the city with something for every taste.

You have to see the incredible electronic 'supertrees' in the Gardens by the Bay, just a short distance from Marina Bay. It's a great place to relax away from the heat of the city, and go for a walk along the waterfront. There's also a Children's Garden water play zone. If you take fun seriously, you can also visit Sentosa water and amusement parks.

If you want to take a souvenir of Singapore away with you, check out Orchard Road. In just one street, you can find everything from luxury products to bargain buys. Changi Airport, where you'll arrive, is also a great place to shop. There's something for everyone.

And if fun, food and shopping just aren't enough for you, take some time to visit the National Gallery and National University of Singapore Museum, with its Chinese and Indian artworks.

MEDIATE

4A Work in pairs and read the Scenario again. Student A: Write a message to Paola. Student B: Write a message to Rui.

B Read your partner's message. Does it answer the questions with relevant information for Paola or Rui?

8C Setting up

WRITING OUTPUT | a set of instructions
GOAL | make instructions easier to understand
MEDIATION SKILL | using headings, bullet points and simple sentences

WARM-UP

1 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 How much time do you spend using technology (phones, tablets, laptops)? What do you do (use apps, play games)?
2 Do you ever use technology for learning?

PREPARE

2 Read the Scenario and the instructions. Are the statements True (T) or False (F)?

1 Wize is an app for teachers to use.
2 Users will have to pay for the app.
3 You can use the app on a laptop.
4 The app is only for learning.

SCENARIO

A language school is about to start using a new app called Wize. Wize helps students to learn English, and to communicate with their teacher and other students. They will also use it for homework, and to check their progress. The instructions on the help video are too difficult though. You need to rewrite them so they are easier for students to understand.

1 Before you install the app, you need to decide which device to use: a phone, a tablet or a laptop. We recommend a tablet if possible. Download the program from the link on our website, or get it free from the app store. It is best to download the 'standard' version. You will see an icon called 'Wize'. Click 'open' and 'install'. Then you can log in to your account with the username and password from your teacher.

2 When you have logged in to the app, you're ready to go! But, what can you do with the app? Well, you can do lots of things. You can click on the 'messages' icon to see messages from your teacher or from your classmates. If you want news, you can go to the 'notice board' to see all the news about the school, like events and changes to your class. Finally, there's the 'My homework' icon, and this is very important. It tells you what homework you have to do!

3 Read the Mediation Skill box. Think of headings for the two sections in the text in Ex 2.

MEDIATION SKILL
using headings, bullet points and simple sentences

To make a text easier to understand, you can break down a text into sections. Then each section should have a list of instructions with bullet points for each step. Each bullet point should be short and simple – you don't even have to write full sentences. You can also use headings to describe the main areas or ideas.

Starting your class
- go to reception
- take the level test

MEDIATE

4A Work in pairs and rewrite the instructions in the Scenario to make them easier to understand. Student A: Rewrite part 1. Student B: Rewrite part 2.

B Show your instructions to your partner and put them together. Give each other feedback on how you can improve them.

- Do they use headings to break the text into sections?
- Do they use bullet points?
- Are the bullets written as short, simple sentences?
